The South raised her own meats once and can do it again, despite the increase in population. They are beginning to find out at last that the South possesses all the requisites for a fine cattle growing country.

New Bern men of capital are not yet bestirring themselves particularly about buying a bale of cotton apiece. It behooves them to bestir themselves. We do not wish this to be the last town to fall in line with the cotton-saving campaign.

A resolution of Mr. W. C. Dowd's was passed at a mass meeting in Charlotte calling upon the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with the cotton situation. Such a special session should be called. There are ways and means which can be worked out whereby the farmers will be saved loss on cotton this year and next year. The need is imperative; yet it only takes a little cooperation to save the situation.

If Emperor William has not planned and carefully prepared for the present general melee then he will find it difficult to explain Germany's huge standing army which he has drained his country of its life-blood to build up and which has had all Europe straining desperately to keep up with it for so many years. In the light of this reflection, the frequency with which the Kaiser asserts that he is battling for the Lord might well cause the allies to apply to him Labouchere's famous remark as to Gladstone. This terse and expressive comment was as follows: "I do not mind Mr. Gladstone's always having an ace up his sleeve, but I do object to his always saying that Providence put it there."

An observer of New Bern traffic, with the continuous whizzing by of automobiles, is apt to be struck with the number of times collisions are narrowly averted. Occasionally vehicles do bump into one another, but fortunately no serious accident has occurred in a long time. One common cause of these collisions besides a great annoyance to traffic is vehicles trying to turn around. A city as large as New Bern should have the law, in force in some of our neighboring towns, forbidding vehicles to turn around except on a corner. We submit to the Aldermen that such an ordinance would materially help in avoiding congestion in the business streets. If the keep-to-the-right law is enforced and if automobiles, carriages, buggies, and wagons are prevented from trying to turn around in the middle of a block the regulation of traffic so as to avoid accidents, delays, and annoyance should be simplified.

A leading Socialist monthly magazine sees in the war a message for the United States. No one man, it says, nor even Congress, should have the power of declaring war, which should only be done by a vote of the whole people. This sounds exceedingly nice, but the magazine is forced to explode its own case by an admission that Congress should have the power of declaring defensive war. In case the United States was suddenly attacked by a hostile nation or by a coalition of foreign powers, the Socialist publication admits that it would take entirely too long to put our heavy national election machinery in motion. And how is the line to be drawn between what shall constitute offensive and what defensive warfare? There is not a nation in Europe today that will admit it is waging an offensive war. They are all, if we are to take their words for it, fighting to protect their hearthstones. The side one is on is invariably the defensive side; the other side is always the unprovoked attackers. And do not the American people already have their own way about war? In Europe a head of a state might take it upon himself alone to declare war, but not so in this country, no matter what powers in this regard are supposed to be attributed to the President in the Constitution. It was American public opinion which made the Spanish-American war, and it will always be American public opinion that shall decide the fate of the United States.

WIGWAM OF CHATTAUKA TRIBE NO. 14 IMPROVED ORDER OF RED MEN.

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call to the Happy Hunting Ground Brother M. P. Ulrich; and whereas, we the members of Chattauka Tribe No. 14 I. O. R. M., believing that Kische Manitou is too merciful to be unmindful and unkind, commend the widow of Brother Ulrich to the Great Spirit and trust that He will ever comfort her in her sad bereavement; and whereas we, members of this Tribe ever ready to turn to a Brother in distress, extend to the widow and family of Brother Ulrich our heartfelt sympathy in her great loss; therefore be it

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records; that a copy be sent to the widow of Brother Ulrich, and that they be published in the daily papers of this city.

PARIS AGAIN TO BECOME CAPITAL

will the Russians do?"
BERLIN, Sept. 14.—A correspondent at German headquarters reports that a terrific struggle has been raging for the last eight days, not only around Paris, but along the whole front from Paris to Verdun, Nancy and Lorraine.

The army of the north, according to this correspondent, has repulsed another story of a British division from Antwerp.

Reports of the Paris battle cover only a sortie from Paris September 5, and an attack by the French and English September 6. They do not touch later phases of the conflict.

The French, in their attack against the line at Meux September 5, developed an extremely heavy artillery fire by a number of heavy batteries from Paris. This attack was repulsed and the batteries followed until they gained shelter under the guns of the Paris fortifications.

The attack was resumed the next day in connection with a vigorous offensive by the French and British armies along the line from Meaux to Montmoril; the most severe fighting occurred along the Petit Morin river. The French artillery fire again was the feature of the combat.

The overwhelming forces endangered the German flank at Crepy, necessitating withdrawal of that wing.

The Crown Prince's army has drawn a circle around Verdun so far that the forts between Toul and Verdun can be attacked on both sides and their fall will open a new gap for the Germans into France. Prince Joachim, who recently was wounded while serving on the firing line, has been removed from the hospital at Allenstein to Berlin.

The Empress met him at the station and kissed and embraced him.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The sixth week of the war between Germany and France, Great Britain and Belgium, has brought a vast transformation. The pursued are now the pursuers. The irresistible sweep of seven German armies through Belgium into France met an immovable force at the river Marne.

The army of General Von Kluck, which so long battled to turn the allies' western flank, was slowly and steadily outflanked. Its retirement before the small, but hardy, British army, turned the tide of the battle.

Today, if French official reports are correct, all the German armies except that facing Verdun and a few miles southwest, are retreating. General Von Kluck's army, which a week ago was a few miles southeast of Paris, has retired more than 60 miles to the northeast, while on the extreme right the army of the Bavarian Crown Prince which was attacking the French eastern line from Nancy to Epinal, has fallen back to the frontiers of Lorraine, permitting the French to reoccupy Luneville and several other towns.

General Joffre, French commander pictures the retreat as Germans abandoning wounded and supplies.

SAYS CONVULSION IN EUROPE IS DEATH OF MILITARISM

Secretary Bryan Predicts End of Warfare Between Civilized Nations.

MAKES AN INSPIRING ALLUSION TO OUR FLAG

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 14.—Predicting that the "convulsions through which Europe is now passing are but the death throes of militarism," Secretary of State William J. Bryan made the principal address at the Star-Spangled Banner celebration here Saturday. The secretary acted as the personal representative of President Wilson and expressed the regrets of the chief executive for his inability to be present. "Let no one think that the texture of our manhood," said Secretary Bryan, "will be of a lower quality when its strength is no longer tested by the stress of war. We could not worship God as we do if we were convinced that each generation must be exercised in blood-letting in order to prevent stagnation. There is as much inspiration in a noble life as in a heroic death. With peaceful progress the avenues of usefulness are being multiplied; instead of seeking to extend our territory by the sword we are enlarging it by intelligent cultivation of the soil; so instead of measuring our merit by the numbers we can overcome we estimate greatness by the service rendered.

"In the day that is dawning the bravery of self-restraint will take the place of that bravery which tramples upon the rights of others, man will dare to forgive and leave vengeance to the Lord."

The secretary paid a glowing tribute to Francis Scott Key, the author of the song.

"Our starry banner," he said, "beautiful as it is to the eye—and there is none more beautiful—derives its real splendor from the fact that it floats 'o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.'"

"We know for what the flag stood when it was first unfurled, and with what courage it has been defended. We might, without exhausting our theme, occupy this hour in thanksgiving for all that has been achieved under the red, white and blue, and in praise of those who have won for it love at home and respect abroad. But gratifying as that would be, more advantage could be gained from the contemplation of the part which we must play, today and tomorrow, in determining what that flag shall symbolize, what kind of freedom shall it represent to the world and for what sort of bravery shall it stand."

SHOT AT HAWK AND HIT A MAN

Shocking Accident in Stanly County—Gordon Hudson May Die.

Albemarle, Sept. 14.—One of the most shocking accidents which Stanly county has experienced in a long time was that which happened late Wednesday five miles east of Albemarle when a Mr. Morton accidentally shot and possibly fatally wounded Gordon Hudson, both men being respected white men. Mr. Morton was out with his gun trying to kill a hawk which had been giving his chickens trouble. Mr. Hudson was high up in a tree picking muscadines. Mr. Morton, being some distance away thought the hawk had lit in the tree in which Mr. Hudson was picking muscadines, so casing nearer and nearer he discovered something moving the leaves and, thinking that he knew the identical spot where the hawk was, fired. Instead of bringing down the troublesome hawk as Mr. Morton expected, to his terror Mr. Hudson fell from the tree, the entire load having penetrated his left side about the floating ribs. The injury from the fall and the wound from the shot will probably prove fatal to Mr. Hudson.
