HENRY GRORGE.

"Death loves a shining mark was shown in the sudden taking off of Mr. Henry George in New York on last Friday at 4:45 a.m. He was one of the four prominent candidates for the mayoralty of the "greater city," and a most vigorous canvass of the metropolis proved too much for his weak con stitution, and he died of apoplexyan overworked brain.

His death cast some uncertain factors into the campaign, but the result is now known.

Mr. George was about 58 years of age, having come up from the ranks of the poorer toilers. He had spent most of his life in the newspaper business, from the bot tom up to a book writer.

Nature's God had given to him a strong, keen intellect and an open, sympathetic, honest heart. He had the bent of the true philos opher-making careful, commonsense observations and deducing lessons therefrom to aid the masses of which he knew so much from his past life. He loved the people and they loved him.

He was a great social and political philosopher. Some of his views were practical and will have a beneficial effect upon the world and our country in future legislation. Others of his views were in advance of his age and are still to be tested. Others still of his views were rather theoretical than prac tical. His main idea as to taxation was that taxes should be raised upon real estate only by a fair graduation; and that there should be a fair distribution of the great bodies of idle land owned by corporations and individuals. But it would be difficult to do this now, and a fair compensation should be rendered, if distributed at all; and he would have it done fairly as to his views of it. He has written a half dozen or more volumes on social and political economy, and his views are in part or as a whole endorsed by some of the great minds of the world, as Tolstoi of Russia. He has started a great current of great thoughts in this country and the world on his chosen themes, and he died an honest martyr to them. Best of all, Henry George was a good man, moral, upright, pious. He was both good and great. "Man proposes, but God disposes."

A FRUITLESS EFFORT.

Senator Wolcott's coaxing com-

make the labor of the present more valuable than the labor of the past. And so it was that the advances of the Wolcott committee were spurned by the English holders of the preferred wealth of the world. Will the Republican party rise ter needing the island in his busito the occasion and declare that its advances to Great Britain having country to protect itself and proceed to the free and independent ... coinage of silver at once?

"HOLD THEM TO THE RACK." The fusionists should be held to the record that they have made. A party that will not own, stand by and defend, if defensible, what it has done is not worthy of the people's trust. If the present will be able to be about as usual party in power, composed of in another week, thanks to bromo, Republicans and Populists, want wet cloths, etc.

to distract attention from their record, it shows that they are convinced that it is weak, and the scheme is to cry "wolf, wolf," to call away the searchlights from what has been done and not done by the last Legislature. But be not deceived at this game of Butler and Russell. Hold them up to their own "rack, fodder or no fodder." Monopolies are bad, but Ruesell and Mary Ann have been trying to make it appear that some State railways are greater trusts and more fearful than other trusts for the sake of arousing prejudice against amassed wealth, and, too, for the purpose of drawing attention away from the famous and remarkable doings that are recorded of that most noteworthy gathering at Raleigh last year, called by way of dutiful politeness the legislature of North Carolina. Uncover them from every false refuge-hold them to the record that they them selves have made. By their fruits we know them, and well; by their fruits we will not know them again as rulers. Pin them down to the record. The Democrats can well compare records with them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Charlotte Daily Observer is delighted at the prospect of a fast train from New York south which will enable this benighted region to get New York newspapers at 6:30 on the day of publication. Will the Observer take note McKinley. He did not wish to that there is no intention to put on any fast trains from the South to the North? It will be impossible to leave Charlotte at 3 or 4 a. m. and get in New York at 6:30 of the same day. It is only for the accommodation of the Yellow Kid, monopoly-representing press of New York that the railroads are presented with a large annual bonus for running a fast mail.

HUB'S BIGGEST MERCHANT. Ou the 16th of December, Judge W. A. Hoke, of the Superior Court, will marry Miss Mamie McBee, of Lincolnton, in the Episcopal church at that place. The golden anni-versary of Miss McBee's parents Charles E. Osgood Recommends occurs on that date.

Mr. Asa Jones, of Ashe county, has a peach orchard the trees of which were grafted on wild dog wood stocks. The owner states the life of these trees is several years longer than the ordinary tree and that they seldom fail to bear a good crop of fruit.

Milton McNeily, having received an appointment as postmaster at Wilkesboro, has sent his resigna tion as State Senator from the twenty-ninth district to the Governor. Being a good Republican, he made sure of the new office before letting go the one he had been holding.

Moore county claims to have built more miles of railroad this year than any county in the State. As a result, the improvements in that section have been almost phenomenal. Grapes, peaches, plums, and berries are being cultivated with great profit, and the lands that formerly were barely worth taxes now bring a good price.

According to a report of the the money return for sales abroad Commissioner of Statistics there are 210 cotton mills in North Caro lina, consuming on an average 1,809 bales of cotton per day. The total number of spindles is 1,463,-395. More cotton is manufactured than the State produces. There are also 16 woolen mills with 5,038 spindles and 234 looms; 22 wool carding mills, and 207 gold mines.

> The trial in the Circuit Court at Asheville of George Hall and Abe Davidson, negroes, charged with the murder of Harry Slagle, resulted in a verdict of acquittal. Slagle was found dead beside the railroad track near Swannanoa Station July last, and the State's theory was that Hall and Davidson mur dered and robbed him and placed the body on the track to divert among furniture dealers during suspicion.

North Carolina's Hidden Wealth

There is undoubtedly more hidden wealth in the soil of North Carolina than in any State of the Union. Its natural resources are so extensive and varied that many mining and manufacturing enterprises are springing up in various portions of the State. The output of the auriferous deposits alone is constantly increasing in value, and the yield at some of the gold mines approaches the appearance of a bonanza to the miner. It is not unreasonable to believe that from present evidences, with the introduction of modern, scentific methods for obtaining the precious metal, the State of North Carolina will in the near future develop more gold than any other part of

The wolves quickly followed the calves through the fence and were rapidly running them down on the other side, when the two cow mothers discovered what was going on. Each uttered a loud bellow, hoisted her tail and started for the rescue. It appeared to be a hopeless chase, for the wire fence intervened, and the cows were certainly much too large to get through it. They knew well one that it was there, and could, besides, see it plainly, but both cows plunged together straight into it. The watching editor, horrified, look-

Soon the cows were licking the res-cued calves affectionately, and the coy-
