Boy's Wages.

"Boys' wages," a familiar phrase which one naturally understands to mean a very small amount, are not necessarily limited to the cash that is paid. A successful business man has recently said, "I wouldn't employ a lad who couldn't learn enough, every week, to equal the value of the money I give him. The boy who complains of inadequate payment needs to be told that if he has a chance to gain knowledge and experience, and improves it, he is putting himself in a position to command his own terms, later on."

A Good Record.

W. H. Council, President of the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Normal, Ala., declares that the record the negroes have made in thirty years "stands out as the sun in the heavens above." He gives his particulars. The race has accumulated $300,000,000 in personal property alone. It has wiped out 40 per cent of illiteracy. It has 150 colleges and universities in the south, 250 negro doctors, 200 negro lawyers, 300 books by negro authors and 400 newspapers.

Stone Soles.

An inventor has hit upon a method of putting stone soles on boots and shoes. He makes a waterproof glue with a suitable quantity of clean quartz sand, and spreads it over the leather sole used as foundation. These quartz soles are said to be very flexible and practically indestructible, and to give the foot a firm hold even on the most slippery surface.

The cattle were destroyed by the Maine explosion, but they could have been just as easily put out of the way by an outlay of 5 cents as at a cost of $4,500,000.

THE WAYS OF GENERALS.

How Victories Were Announced by Them.

TAYLOR AND HIS SOUP.

He Began His Report of a Fight by Telling What He Was Doing--Jackson's Way.

When General Taylor had fought and won a great battle in Mexico he sent a report of it to the Secretary of War and began it by saying: "Sir—On yesterday noon as I was taking a hasty plate of soup." The nation was electrified at the victory, but everybody smiled at the old man's style of reporting it and the importance he attached to soup. Nevertheless the Whigs nominated him for President over General Scott and Daniel Webster. Scott was called "Old Fuss and Feathers," but Taylor was dubbed "Old Rough and Ready," and that nominated him. The Democratic papers made fun of him and called him "old soup plate" and "old hasty," but he was elected. His fighting qualities put him through.

And Henry Watterson says we can put Admiral Dewey through for the same reason. Maybe we can. I am willing, of course, for he is a Democrat and a Presbyterian, and being one of the elect, ought to be elected. We don't know that he is partial to soup, but certain it is that he is partial to his stomach, for he actually stopped fighting and sinking ships long enough to eat breakfast. Was such a thing ever done in the midst of a terrific battle before? "Twenty minutes for breakfast!" was the ring of the steward's bell on every vessel and the poor Spaniards had surcease of sorrow for a little while. Zachary Taylor said, "A little more grape, Captain Bragg," but Dewey said, "Boys, let us rest awhile and eat up something the rest of their ships will keep."

Dewey is a Green mountain boy and I like that, for Vermont Democrats are the best Democrats north of the line. And just to think of his being a Presbyterian. I didn't know they had any in Vermont and would have set him down for a Unitarian or a Roman Catholic or a deep water Baptist. Grover Cleveland, they say, is a Presbyterian, but maybe he is one of Zeb Vance's kind. Zeb said: "The difference between me and my brother Bob is that Bob is a Methodist and believes in falling from grace, but Bob never falls. I am a Presbyterian and don't believe in falling from grace, but am falling all the time." When Zeb was running against Holden for Governor he found out that all the people in a little valley over the mountain were Baptists and so he went over there just a few days before Holden was to speak there and told the boys that his good old mother was a Baptist and that Holden was a regular old fashioned shoutin' Methodist and you could hear him a mile at a camp meeting. The result was that not a dozen men came out to hear Holden and Vance got every vote in the settlement.

But that stopping for breakfast at Manila reminds me of the great fight between Dr. Hall and Colonel Boyd, of our town, away back before the war. They were leading citizens and continually at outs. They carried much animosity on their tongues and much corpulency in their abdominal regions, for each weighed about 250 pounds and had short necks and short arms and shorter legs and each had vowed to whip the other if he ever crossed his path. One day as Hall was going from the postoffice, slowly walking and reading his paper, he and Boyd met at the corner and the fight began. Each was as big a coward as old Falstaff, but they had to fight and everybody around was willing. In a brief time they got to the ground, and neither could get up or get on top, and they blowed like porpoises. After while the people took pity on them and helped them up and then each claimed the victory. "I sent you word I was going to whip you," said Boyd, "and now I reckon you will quit telling lies on me." "Whip who, you old, dirty, lying puppy. Why, I whipped you, sir, and never stopped reading my newspaper," and he held up the crumpled sheet that somehow or other he had never let go from his hand. The old doctor always swore that he never stopped reading his paper while fighting Boyd. Just so Taylor never forgot his soup and Dewey his breakfast. There is no record in all history that matches Dewey's coolness under fire and over water, and if he should be nominated for our next President, as Watterson predicts, the children will be twenty minutes for breakfast.

Stonewall Jackson didn't seem to care very much about eating during a fight, [illegible] were about praying for the souls of his enemies.

"The Rebel [illegible] knew them well,
[illegible]
That's Stonewall Jackson's way.

"[illegible] and [illegible] Kneel all [illegible] off
Old Blue[illegible] going to pray,
[illegible] stretch forth thy rod;
[illegible] That's Stonewall's way."

But after all that has been said or sung about our heroes, I don't believe that any good hearted man takes pleasure in killing his fellow men whether in battle or in a personal quarrel. In the olden time when men fought duels and it was considered dishonorable to refuse a challenge, many a man overshot his adversary rather than have his blood on his hands. It takes a hard-hearted man to shoot another down in cold blood and it is a shade of comfort to every true soldier to know that every bullet he fired may have missed the mark. I saw two soldiers shot at sunrise one morning at Centreville myself. Twelve men fired the fatal shots but no one knew who killed them, for six of the guns had no balls in them. Such is the kind consideration that even army rules have for the feelings of those who are chosen for such reluctant work. That voice from heaven that Cain heard which said that he killed Abel still haunts us. "The voice of thy brother's blood cries unto me from the ground." I have often wondered how the spirits of dead soldiers of opposing armies meet each other on the other side. Do they shake hands and make friends or how? Or do they say like Nathaniel Hawthorne said when asked if he was in favor of civil war, "Well, yes, I suppose so, in fact, I am constrained to approve it, but still I don't know what we have to fight about."

But one thing is certain. We are coming slow speed in feeding starving Cubans and if our fleets don't hurry up there won't be anybody to feed. Lord help them, for it looks like we cannot. —Bill Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

NORTH CAROLINA HISTORY.

Some Facts Not Well Known Outside the State.

THE ANSON STATE FARM.

A Good Strawberry Season at Wilmington--New Military Company Organized at Charlotte.

The people of North Carolina have been unfortunate in some respects. They have been but little addicted to boasting of their achievements. While other States have been conspicuous on gala days and in the historical record of the past the people of North Carolina have for two hundred years been making history without seeking to blazon forth their deeds to the world. Mr. Bancroft, whose duties led him to investigate the facts of North Carolina's history has recognized much that the people of this State have accomplished in the cause of human freedom and in vindication of rights ever held dear by free-born citizens, and has in his immortal pages, chronicled some of the events that mark the advance of North Carolina upon the highway of civil liberty and religious development. But, unfortunately the people in this State have been so isolated from the great centres, have had so little communication with the outside world, have been so destitute of those channels of intercourse that belong to more favored sections, that the great, important and unquestioned facts of their history are unknown to the people of other States. While the skirmishes of the New England States are known and read of all men events of earlier and of quite as significant character that happened in North Carolina are only known to gentlemen beyond its borders, who, like the late Colonel Peter Force, of Washington, Mr. Bancroft, President Welling, and a few others, are fond of historical investigation or have been led by some circumstance to explore some of the partially known historical territory that belongs to this people. In view of these facts it becomes an interesting question, what North Carolina claims and what can be established beyond all cavil or question? Brifly thus:

That the first Englishman who ever planted foot on the American continent landed on Roanoke Island in the month of July, 1854.

That the first child born of English parents on American soil was Virginia Dare, who was born on Roanoke Island in 1585, after whom the county of Dare is named.

That the first resistance to the stamp act was at Wilmington, N. C., in 1865.

That the first blood that was ever drawn in the defence of the people's rights and in resistance of tyranny, was at Alamance, on May 16, 1771.

That the first meeting that was ever held in any of the colonies to declare separation from the British command, to organize for armed resistance, was in North Carolina, in the county of Mecklenburg, in the month of May, 1775—nearly fifteen months before the national declaration.

The Anson State Farm.

Any one who has not visited the State farm recently would be surprised to note the great amount of work Capt. Reinhardt, the superintendent, has had done there in the last few months. The system of canals and hill side ditches constructed on the farm by Capt. Reinhardt is unmistakable proof that he knows exactly what is needful for the drainage of the obdurate Gould's Fork bottoms. The value of the bottoms has always been recognized, provided they could be drained, but, as the task was too great for private individuals to undertake on a scale large enough to insure success, it looked for a long time as if they would have to be abandoned to the rushing waters that spread over them after every heavy rain. The acreage of crops on the farm this year is about as follows: Cotton, 500 acres; corn, planted and to plant, 500 acres; wheat, 50 acres; oats, 90 acres; peas, planted and to plant, 150 acres; sweet potatoes, enough to run the farm. Besides this there are large gardens and truck patches. Capt. Reinhardt's intention is to make the farm self sustaining, and to this end he is bending all his energies.

Good Strawberry Season.

There have been about 250,000 crates of berries taken out during the season from points between Wilmington and Goldsboro. This is a big increase over last year, when the figures were 161,188. The number of quarts carried out this season, calculating thirty-two quarts to the crate, is 8,000,000. Calculating on an average of 11 cents per quart it will be seen that the gross receipts were $880,000.

Charlotte's New Company.

A volunteer company was organized at the Queen City Guards' armory on the 22d, to be known as the Mecklenburg Riflemen. A greater part of Captain Gadd's company is included in this organization. It will fill the vacancy in the Second Regiment, which is expected to occur, due to one of the original companies failing to secure the required number of recruits. The officers are: H. S. Germley, captain; W. G. Wall, first lieutenant; S. B. Alexander, Jr., second lieutenant. Later, the complement of the Second regiment has been completed, but the company hopes to be mustered in later.

There is one obvious benefit from all the war talk. The people are being extensively informed on the geography of certain sections of the earth's surface, and they probably know more than they ever knew before about international law, the great navies of the world and other matters made prominent by current events. Undoubtedly, war scares are educational, if not altogether beneficial in other respects.

Invitations have been issued announcing the one hundred and third annual commencement of the University of North Carolina, May 29th to June 1st, inclusive.

Held Up by Three Negroes.

Dan S. Chandler, of south Iredell, who was in town Saturday, reports that while he was en route home, just after dark that evening, three negroes came upon him in the public road just below the Stockton place, about two miles south of town, and took him off his horse. They made an effort to go through his pockets. Mr. Chandler says, but got none of his money, notwithstanding he had $10 or $12 on his person.

Major Hayes Honored.

General Fitzhugh Lee has tendered to his old friend of the U. S. A., who is stationed here as military advisor to Governor Russell, the appointment of either of the two very important and desirable positions on his staff. The positions are Chief Quartermaster and Chief Commissary. Major Hayes as yet has neither declined or accepted the offer of General Lee and will wait a short while before making his decision.

ELIZABETH COMMENCEMENT.

First Session of the New and Prosperous Female College to be Ended With Interesting and Appropriate Ceremonies.

Elizabeth College at Charlotte, N. C., opened its first school year last September with 86 pupils from many States. Now it has almost 100 pupils. Its first school year has been one of phenomenal success, and deservedly so, for its projectors spared no pains nor expense in founding an institution worthy in every way of elevating the moral and mental capacities of young women and fitting them for life's arduous duties. The college grounds are located just outside the city and cover twenty acres of a nicely shaded and retired elevation, commanding magnificent and unobstructed views from every point, while the buildings proper, costing $70,000, are handsome, large, airy, equipped with all modern conveniences, and yet have the home-like, refined and inviting environments so requisite and yet so often absent in public institutions. The value of the college property is estimated at $100,000. Not one case of serious illness occurred during the year; perfect health, moral and physical, has ruled at Elizabeth College.

It is hardly too much to claim that Elizabeth College is practically "The Vassar of the South" lacking only age to place it on as high a plane as is accorded to its older compeer of the North.

Space forbids as full an account of this young and aggressive educational institution as we would like to give it. Suffice it to say that it has a faculty of exceptional ability. Its president, Rev. C. B. King, and Vice-President, Rev. C. L. T. Fisher, see to it that nothing is left undone towards the personal comfort and mental advancement of each pupil. The commencement exercises occur June 12th to 15th, as follows:

Sermon Before the Senior Class—Sunday, June 12th, in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, at 11 o'clock, a. m., by Rev. A. G. Voigt, D. D., of Newberry, S. C.

Annual Sermon—Sunday, June 12th, in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, at 8 o'clock p. m., by Rev. J. C. Moser, D. D., of Hickory, N. C., subject, "Life."

Address Before the Literary Societies—Monday, June 13th, in the college chapel, at 8 o'clock p. m., by Hon. Theo. Klutz, of Salisbury, N. C., subject, "Some Great Women."

(Callisthenic drill).

Commencement Exercises—In college chapel, June 14th, at 10 o'clock a. m., address by Rev. Robert C. Holland, D. D., pastor of St. Mark's and chaplain of the college. Awarding medals, distinctions, etc. (Music).

Concert and Reception—Tuesday, June 14th, in college chapel and parlors, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Art Exhibit—Monday afternoon and Tuesday.

The new catalogue, unique and handsome, is now ready and will be mailed to interested parties on application.

Island Moves a Mile an Hour.

Floating islands are not so rare as may be generally supposed. They are largely a matter of locality, and the one sighted three times in 1892 in the north Atlantic ocean was not only an unusual occurrence, but also of peculiar scientific interest. On the three instances the island was seen it was moving toward the Azores at the rate of about a mile an hour. Its extent was nearly 800 feet each way, and it contained much forest growth, many of the trees being thirty feet high.

Wall Paper Oddity.

Zinc wall paper is the latest oddity. The zinc is attached to the wall by a cement invented for the purpose, and is made to imitate marble. The surface is enameled so as to render it permanent or washable. It is claimed for this new departure in decorative material that, while it is as permanent as tiles or marble, it is much cheaper, and can be as easily put on as ordinary wall paper.

Some women do nothing but write letters.

A School Girl's Battle.

From The Mail, Milford, Ind.

Miss Emma Rybolt, a prepossessing school girl of Milford, Ind., is of more than usual intelligence, and is ambitious to rise in the literary world.

"In the fall of 1895," said Mrs. Rybolt, "Emma was taken ill. She was a close student and her work began to tell on her. She grew weak, pale and nervous, and complained of pains in her back, chest and limbs. A few weeks passed and she grew worse. The doctor said she was a victim of nervous prostration, and should have been taken from school weeks earlier. She gradually grew worse, her nerves were so tense that the least noise irritated her and she had a fever and a continual twitching in her muscles. The symptoms were much like St. Vitus' dance.

Her Battle.

"A year passed, and, under a change of physicians, Emma became somewhat better but soon was as bad as ever. One day I read of a case similar to hers which was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and I decided to try them.

"Emma had no faith in proprietary medicines but tried the pills, and after taking a dozen doses, she began to improve. It was about the first of April when she began and by the middle of May, after taking about eight boxes, she was entirely cured.

"While ill, she lost twenty-eight pounds, but now weighs more than ever before. Her nerves are strong and she is in perfect health. We are all confident that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People cured her, and I cheerfully recommend them in all similar cases. MRS. E. A. RYBOLT."

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this third day of September, 1897.

CALEB BAKER, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will cure all diseases arising from a poor and watery condition of the blood, will build up a run down system and are a specific for paralysis, locomotor ataxia and other diseases long regarded as incurable.

Fitzhugh Lee as consul general at Havana illustrates the fundamental principle of civil service reform, which is "to find the right man for the place and keep him there. General Lee is a Democrat, a Southerner and was a hard fighter on the Southern side. He was selected for his present place by a Democratic President on the grounds of fitness alone. When a Republican President came in and found this delicate and difficult post so admirably filled by a man of opposite politics he wisely requested him to remain "as a personal favor to the President." Everybody is not only satisfied, but greatly pleased with the result.

The Pittsburg Dispatch says: "Jealousy is now regarded as a disease by the medical profession, and in such cases as are brought to eminent doctors it is treated as such." The divorce treatment usually is a most effective cure for that ailment.
