Psoriasis—A Violent Form of Eczema.
Blanche, N. C., July 16, 1910.

Milam Medicine Co., Danville, Va.
Gentlemen—I have been afflicted with a torturing skin disease pronounced by the physicians to be "Psoriasis," and have had it for ten years. My treatment of the physicians ever renewed me, and I continued to grow worse and was unable to do my work. By the advice of my physician I commenced to take Milam on March 28th last. I am now far on the road to recovery, and feel that I will be entirely cured. I am now at work and feel no inconvenience from it. I take great pleasure in giving this certificate and think Milam it a great medicine.
Yours truly,
J. W. PINCHBACK.

Progress Being Made in Raising Live Stock

Exhibits at the Appalachian Exposition Will Show What South is Doing—A Fine Display.

The live stock exhibit of the Appalachian Exposition at Knoxville, Tenn., will take place Sept. 11 to 16, inclusive. Premiums amounting to $15,000 will be distributed among different types of farm animals. The general classifications are: Open, southern Appalachian and East Tennessee. The southern Appalachian region includes Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. The show will be in charge of Dr. M. Jacob, of Knoxville.

The following will be judges:
Horses and Ponies—Dr. C. W. Gay, University of Pennsylvania, and G. W. Bales, Richmond, Ky.
Mules and Jack Stock—John L. Jones, Columbia, Tenn.

Beef Cattle—Prof. H. A. Morgan, University of Tennessee, Knoxville.
Dairy Cattle—W. Gettys, Athens, Tenn., and R. L. Wallace, Knoxville, Tenn.

Swine—J. S. Henderson, Kenton, Tenn., and J. M. Klever, Bloomingburg, O.

Sheep—Prof. M. P. Jarnigan, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.

The southern Appalachian region constitutes a wonderful field for pure bred live stock. A greater relative interest is being shown throughout this section toward improved live stock than in any other section of the United States. It is a stock raising country, having all the natural essentials necessary to produce good quality. And again, the climatic conditions are such that live stock can be raised at less cost than in any other section, and, besides, it is within easy access of the best markets of the country.

For all these reasons, the live stock exhibit at the Appalachian Exposition offers an excellent opportunity to the producers of registered live stock to show and advertise their particular lines.

The southern Appalachian region has an established reputation for live stock. For instance, East Tennessee is noted for its high class mules, jack stock, dairy cattle, especially Jerseys, and Berkshire, Duroc-Jersey, and Poland China hogs. In these particular classes, as well as horses, the exhibits this year will surpass those of any other show.

In one class alone in 1910 forty stallions were shown at one time, while throughout the entire show the classes varied in number from seven to forty. Entries show that these figures will be far exceeded in this year's shows.

MUSICAL FEATURES WILL PROVE MOST ENJOYABLE

No entertainment can be complete without music. This thought has been in mind by the creators of the Appalachian Exposition, which is to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., September 11 to October 1. Consequently one of the best-known and most talented brass bands in the country has been procured to furnish music at the exposition, both day and night. Weber's band, of Cincinnati, numbering more than fifty pieces, and with a constellation of vocal and instrumental soloists, the like of which have never before been heard in the south, will render programs day and night during the exposition period. The music of this band will be diversified in selection. It will be of the popular class, that appeals to all, and it will also include many of the masterpieces of sainted composers. In addition to this band, several other bands and orchestras have been engaged to furnish music at the various midway shows, horse show, live stock show, pyrotechnic displays, etc.

One of the stellar features will be the children's chorus and the Oratorio society's musicals, to be given under the direction of Prof. C. S. Cornell, musical director of the Knoxville city schools. The programs to be sung by these societies, which will include more than 1,000 voices, will surpass anything of the kind ever attempted in the south. Prof. Cornell has been training his choruses for months, and the singing at the exposition will be the climax of this great work.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fall. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Cal., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Streetman's drug store.

A HISTORICAL SKETCH

Of the 22nd N. C. Regiment During the Civil War by an Old Veteran.

About the last of April we were ordered on the march again and went into line at Fredericksburg in the railroad cut only a short distance from where we were the 13th of December. The Federal dead had been buried a short distance in our front and by this time you could see some of their remains scattered about over the ground. We were here but a short time when we were marched up the river come 12 or 14 miles and went into line of battle, expecting to have a fight with General Hooker who had crossed the river and was coming down toward Fredericksburg. We dug our rifle pits and placed our skirmish line out. In the afternoon we left our position line and commenced a march, mostly through woods.

Late in the evening we were halted, a line of battle was formed and we were ordered forward. We opened fire on the Federal teamsters and camps. Their soldiers had fires burning and were preparing supper. We charged upon them and in their plight they left everything. We kept advancing and kept up a desultory fire as they fell back. As it was getting dark and we could not keep up the line we were ordered into the road that leads to Chancellorsville and marched down the road some distance in a brigade column until halted. The road was full of both infantry and artillery. The Federals discovered where we were and opened fire on us with all their artillery stationed about the Chancellorsville hotel. Shells fell thick and fast. There was great confusion. I heard some one say that General Jackson was wounded. Our artillery had to be turned around in the road and our infantry was scattered on each side of the road. Some who went into the woods to the right were captured.

A courier came up and called for the 16th regiment. I understood him to say they wanted to go for General Stewart. General Hill must have been wounded shortly after I saw him that night. Many men were killed and wounded. After quiet had come the line of battle was organized. Our regiment was on the right of the brigade and company A on the right of the regiment. We rested all night on our arms. We heard the Federals during the night working on their rifle pits and knew what it meant for us next morning.

Early the next morning our command was ordered forward. The skirmishers had not advanced far before fighting began. The main line was ordered to charge the line of rifle pits and the general firing began in earnest. The firing from both sides was incessant for some time. Finally the Federal line gave way and we advanced over the line of breast works and held them, but at a dear sacrifice of life. We lost our lieutenant-colonel commanding the regiment, also Major Odell of our regiment, two hundred and nineteen men were killed and wounded, and out of thirty-three officers twenty-six were killed and wounded. During this battle the bushes and trees between the two lines were shot into shreds and it is a mystery how men escaped uninjured.

I don't know the losses of the various companies but company A had eight killed out of about thirty that went into action and a corresponding number wounded. The battle must have lasted at least half the day. In the afternoon the woods caught fire and many Federal soldiers dead and wounded were burned—a sad sight to see. I helped to bury some who were badly burned. The day was very warm and there was great suffering among the wounded.

Peruna Secrets You Should Know

Golden Seal, the root of the above plant, is a very useful medicine. Many people gather it in our rich woodlands during the summer. Few people know how valuable it is in dyspepsia, catarrh, and as a general tonic. Many thousand pounds of this root are used each year in the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna. This fact explains why everybody uses Peruna for catarrh.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address:
