FOR GOOD BLOOD

What Milam is
Milam is a vegetable remedy made from a formula successfully used for 45 years in all troubles arising from impure, impoverished or acid blood. Contains no alcohol, mercury, potash or other dangerous or habit-forming ingredients. Beneficial to the stomach and digestive organs as well as the blood. A true tonic.

What Milam DOES
Cures the most deperate blood diseases. Builds up the system, eradicates uric acid, thus curing rheumatism, gout, eczema, etc. Beneficial in all run down conditions, consumption, catarrh, anaemia, failing eyesight from impoverished blood supply, creates appetite, aids digestion, and is a genuine RECONSTRUCTIVE TONIC.

ENDORSEMENTS FROM RELIABLE PEOPLE

Your medicine is, in my estimation, a godsend to humanity.—C. D. Jefferson, 875 Woodland Ave., Roanoke, Va.

Milam is a grand medicine. I have taken it for five bottles, but the effect has been splendid. I feel better and stronger and more able to stand up under my work than for several years. I have been troubled with excess of uric acid, which I feared that I could not eat tomatoes without the torturing agony. To my surprise and pleasure I can now eat tomatoes to my heart's content without any evil consequences.—How. H. D. Guarrant, Danville, Va.

You said you would cure me or refund the money. Well, you may keep your money—my face is entirely well. After having suffered with eczema for 21 years I am cured.—C. H. Williams, care Cluett, Fishery & Co., Troy, N. Y.

I had not taken Milam more than three or four days when I began to see a decided improvement in a general way, and within a few weeks my face was clear and my health restored.—Rev. R. L. Mehan, Charlottesville, Va.

I will always take pleasure in recommending Milam. Uric Acid troubles.—C. F. Ballard, Exportsville, Danville, Virginia.

On March 15th I commenced to use Milam. From the first the benefit derived was noticeable even to my friends. My catarrhal troubles nearly gone, my digestion better than for years, my lungs cleared, and in fact I am in the best of health in every respect. I have had no rheumatism. I am conscientiously giving it my warmest endorsement.—Rev. Nathan Maynard, Columbus, Ga., returned missionary from Japan.

I was both surprised and gratified at the great benefit I derived from the use of Milam. I have conscientiously recommended it to my friends. R. W. Thompson 168 W. Main St. Richmond, Va.

I think Milam is the finest thing in the world.—Mrs. H. H. Reynolds, Ohio, Va.

For nearly eight years I suffered with rheumatism, at times unable to walk. I am now taking Milam with great benefit, as I can get on my feet and am able to walk with ease.—Miss Ira R. ...

Since I have been using Milam the boils have quit coming, my health has improved and I can eat almost anything I want. I feel much better, and I see to be improved in almost every way.—Rev. H. G. Douthit, Waltham, S. C. State Evangelist for Wesleyan Episcopal Conference of N. Carolina.

Pains All Over!

"You are welcome," says Mrs. Nora Guffey, of Broken Arrow, Okla., "to use my letter in any way you want to, if it will induce some suffering woman to try Cardui. I had pains all over, and suffered with an abscess. Three physicians failed to relieve me. Since taking Cardui, I am in better health than ever before, and that means much to me, because I suffered many years with womanly troubles, of different kinds. What other treatments I tried, helped me for a few days only."

TAKE CARDUI The Women's Tonic

Don't wait, until you are taken down sick, before taking care of yourself. The small aches and pains, and other symptoms of womanly weakness and disease, always mean worse to follow, unless given quick treatment.

You would always keep Cardui handy, if you knew what quick and permanent relief it gives, where weakness and disease of the womanly system makes life seem hard to bear. Cardui has helped over a million women. Try it.

AIDED THE REVOLT

The Destruction of Portland, Me., In Colonial Days.

ACT OF AN ENGLISH OFFICER.

A Royalist Woman's Wiles Caused the Annihilation of the City and Saved Portsmouth, N. H. For Which Portland's Fate Had Been Planned.

One of the causes of the Revolutionary war, and quite as important a one as the stamp act, was the wanton destruction of the city of Portland, Me., then part of the town of Falmouth. It was said that the patriots might have forgiven Lexington and Concord, but that the razing of this town, which had been peaceably inclined until then, incensed the colonies beyond measure. One prompt result was the immediate formation of a Maine regiment which was added to the meager forces of the Continental army.

Not so generally known, however, is the tradition that it was due to the fascinations of a beautiful woman that Portland was destroyed and another town preserved.

When the British commander, Captain Mowatt, on board his flagship, the "Caccatu", anchored with his fleet in Portland's inner harbor, he did not reveal to her citizens that the unscrupulous little god of love had been his pilot. Instead, on a bright October morning in 1775, he ran up the royal ensign on his flag and at 10 o'clock began a bombardment that lasted until interruptedly until 11 o'clock at night. Portland was unprepared for such a visitation, and there was no attempt at defense, the inhabitants simply swarming the streets with their ox carts and horses and attempting to seek safety by flight to the open country back from the water front.

So close did the assaulting vessels approach that under cover of the bombardment they landed sailors who perverted the town, setting fire to such buildings as had escaped damage from hot shot and exploding bombs. Before Captain Mowatt had completed the sacrifice he desired to lay before the shrine three-quarters of the town was totally destroyed, including the municipal buildings, churches, public library, fire engine houses, warehouses, wharfs and shipping.

All that he left was a handful of the poorer hovels, every residence of importance being bombarded or set on fire and 5,000 inhabitants left shelterless at the approach of winter. To make it practically certain that aid could not come to the seaport by water he destroyed all but one wharf and took with him on his departure all the vessels anchored in the harbor that had been spared from the torch.

Truly he had a glorious bonfire and in explanation he exhibited instructions which read: "Come opposite the town with all possible expedition, and there burn, sink and destroy," but the gossips of the time said that these orders originally related to Portsmouth, N. H., and that it was due to a woman that they were not carried out as written.

Captain Mowatt and his fleet had anchored off Portsmouth harbor some time previously to his assault upon Portland, and while there he had gone quietly on shore and secretly visited the family of the royalist or Tory, as the colonists called them, Nathaniel Sparhawk. Nathaniel had a daughter, a girl of eighteen, famed the country round for her beauty as her father was famed for his obnoxious loyalty to King George, and when the sailor captain saw her he proved an easy conquest like most sailors where pretty women are concerned, and he found it necessary to be rowed from his ship many times in order to spend the evenings with attractive Mary Sparhawk.

Her wit, beauty and brilliancy of conversation fascinated him and through her influence, it is said, the intention of bombarding Portsmouth was abandoned, and Portland suffered in the stead of the town which held the charming little loyalist.

So what one historian termed "a wanton, indefensible assault upon an undefended and peaceful city" came about through a woman's smile, and every volley from the fifty guns of Mowatt's fleet doubtless carried his thoughts back to the lass who had won his heart. The smoldering wharfs and the flaming houses were his burnt offering to his ladylove.

The Sparhawk house, where the captain lost his heart still stands; but alas, the romance ended as so many romances do, for after the Revolution was over the fair and fascinating belle married a physician and a patriot.—Detroit Free Press.
