Dysartsville Dots.

Dysartsville, Nov. 6.—Noah Watson Green died October 26, and was buried at Trinity the day following. He leaves two sons and three daughters to mourn their irreparable loss. His wife and three sons and one daughter preceded him to the unknown world. He was a very quiet inoffensive man, kind and obliging, a good citizen and a good neighbor.

Mrs. Anna Lovelace of Bolling Springs was here at her father's burial, (Noah Green,) and remained several days.

Prof. and Mrs. Stegge moved to Dysartsville last Tuesday and now occupy the premises bought of Upton Brothers.

Prof. Norman Fanning Stegge commenced the Dysartsville High School today. This is Prof. Stegge's fourth term which shows his great popularity among our people.

C. A. Jaquins is attending to his store now, James Goforth having quit to farm.

Rev. Mr. Womack of the Thermal circuit, preached his last sermon at Trinity on the fifth Sunday.

Whether Isaac and Bettye have the right to poke fun at each other, let others judge. Success to both!
