After Blind Tigers.

Some few days ago Mayor Street-man, using the means at his command, began a crusade against blind tigers. A detective was employed to secure evidence against all violators of the law. Last week four alleged violators of the liquor law were arrested, tried before the mayor, and bound over to court. This activity on the part of the city officials brought consternation to the camps of the blind tiger element. A few alleged sympathizers made public their opposition to the methods employed by the city officials to secure evidence against blind tigers by a public demonstration against the detective. Four of these were arrested and bound over to court under $1,000 bonds, and a warrant is out for the fifth man.

The board of aldermen unanimously endorsed this action of the mayor and the police, and it is stated that every effort will be made to drive the blind tigers out of town.

Card of Thanks.
