With every soul there are days when the flood of life runs high. There are days when one has high courage, when he feels strength to do any task; when his day dreams lead him to look afar, and his vision is keen enough to reach to the highest peaks. Trust those days. They are the right ones on which to set out to seek fortune. Get clear in your mind on such a day the whole vision; see then the way to the accomplishment of your desires; set out resolutely and at once on the way. The high flood-tide in your life cannot last. Next day, as you go about your work, the way may seem long and hard; you may half repent that you have sent yourself to travel it, yet be sure that the vision that came to you when your courage ran high and your sight was keen was the truest one, the one best worth pursuing.

The vision is the thing. We do not go beyond it, maybe not reach it, yet it is worth the struggle. You have all sorts of schemes in your life, your farm and your children; the noblest of them are possible and best worth while. One soul takes counsel of its fears: it gets not far; another takes departure on the life journey on the day when the flood-time of life runs high; and it achieves .- The late Joseph E. Wing.

TAKING CARE OF TEETH

Horse's Molars Should Be Examined for Defects.

Elongated and Ulcerated Grinder Often Prevent Animal From Properly Masticating Its Food-Weakness Follows.

If your horse shows difficulty in eating, or loses flesh without apparent cause, it is time to examine the teeth. Very often elongated teeth prevent a horse from properly masticating its food, thereby rendering it impossible to obtain much benefit from it Ulcerated teeth also are a source of great trouble and prevent a horse from eating well. Sometimes broken teeth cut the sides of the horse's mouth and form painful sores, which, of course, interfere with mastication.

It is a good plan to examine the teeth of all horses two or three times a year, and in the case of broken or elongated teeth treat them with a file. If the teeth of a valuable animal are badly affected it should be treated by a veterinary surgeon.

A man living in an eastern state tells of a six-year-old Virginia mule which almost starved to death because of bad teeth. It was sold for a nominal price and the new owner, after having the animal's teeth treated, found that he had a mule that was capable of doing almost as much work as any other on the place. The animal picked up flesh amazingly immediately after treatment, and its value was enhanced at least four times within six months after it had been sold.

A loss of appetite is frequently observed in horses caused by irregularbe located by the presence of un-crushed grain in the excrement. The teeth should be examined from time to time in order to detect the presence of sharp points or other irregular-ities, especially on the grinders. If a horse cannot masticate his food properly, loss of flesh and weakness is bound to result. It is a good plan to look at the teeth frequently.

BIG WASTE IN FARM MANURE

Estimated Value Placed at $700,000,000 Annually-As Much as Total of Wheat Crop.

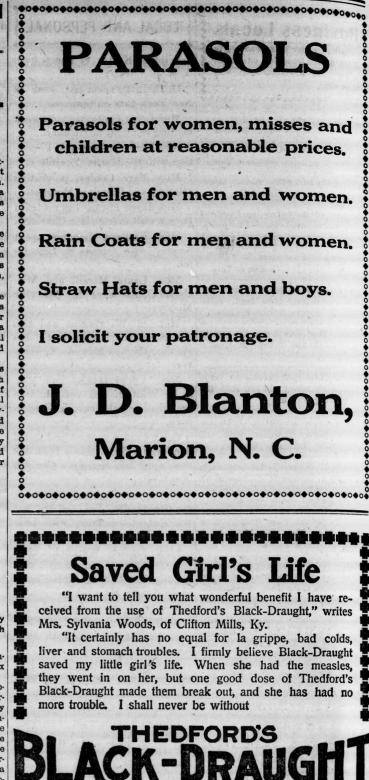

(By PROF. J. G. HUTTON, Associate Agronomist, South Dakota State Col-lege.)

It has been carefully estimated that the value of the farm manure which is allowed to go to waste is $700,000,-000 annually. The wheat crop for 1912 has been estimated at 730,000,000 bushels. It is seen from these figures that the value of the manure going to waste on the farms in the United States is worth as much as the total wheat crop of the country.

PROFITABLE GAIN FROM PIGS

Suitable Pasture With Enough Grain to Stimulate Bony Growth Will Produce Results.

Pigs make profitable gain on any kind of suitable pasture with enough grain to stimulate the bony growth. They need grain, even with alfalfa 2:

Even when grain is high and pork comparatively low, as at present, we cannot afford to stunt the pigs by relying on the pasture altogether.

One pound of corn for each 50 pounds of live weight will prove enough if the forage is plentiful.

MAKING START WITH SHEEP

Any of Breeds Suitable to Local Conditions Are Good-Western Ewes Make Cheap Start.

How many or what kind of sheep one should buy to start with depends on how one is situated, and whether the idea is to raise lambs or to feed out at once

If the beginner wants to raise lambs fifty or one hundred young ewes would be plenty for first trial. Any of the breeds suitable to your conditions are good. Western ewes make a cheap start when bred up with good mutton rams.
