

Lowell Farmer Says it Helped Friends Too.

The experience of J. B. Bigger, a well-known farmer, living at Lowell, N. C., R. F. D. No. 1, furnishes another very striking illustration of the value of Tanlac to persons suffering from a run-down condition. While in Gastonia the other day, Mr. Bigger made the following statement:

"When I started taking Tanlac I had been laid up with typhoid and malaria fever, which left me in mighty bad shape. My stomach was so out of gear that nothing agreed with me. My nerves were all unstrung and I was so run down that I simply wasn't worth a nickel so far as work was concerned. I was troubled with gas on my stomach and had such bad dizzy spells that I could hardly stand up.

"I took six bottles of Tanlac in all, but I commenced to feel like a new man before the second bottle was gone. My stomach misery, dizziness and nervousness has left me entirely. I sleep like a log at night and feel as strong and well as I ever did. I've put a number of my friends onto Tanlac and it has helped them just like it did me. I don't believe it has an equal in the world."

Tanlac is sold by all good drug-gists.

PLENTY OF PEP LEFT IN THE THIN GRAY LINE

Asheville, Sept. 28.—Greenleaf N. Teechmor, a union veteran of the 91st Ohio Infantry, and A. H. Boyles, of the Soldiers' Home, Raleigh, who served with the Fourth North Carolina, shook hands during the State Confederate reunion this morning. On October 19, 1864, the men faced each other in the battle of Fisher Hill, Virginia. "You may have been the Yankee who sent a minie ball into my arm," said Boyles. "Didn't seem to hurt you much," replied Teechmor, and the men walked off arm in arm, to march in the parade of Gray veterans.

Chris Miller, of Asheville, 96, the oldest veteran at the reunion declined to ride in an automobile preferring to walk in the parade. J. A. Rogers, 76, also claimed distinction. He is the father of 18 children, 68 grand-children and 68 great grand-children, and carries wounds of seven bullets in his body. J. W. L. Arthur, of Asheville, 74, is the youngest veteran at the reunion.

Mrs. Hensell Sales, of Fairview, told the veterans yesterday if they take care of themselves they may reach their maturity. She was celebrating her 99th birthday anniversary.

JAMES B. DUKE DONATES MILLION TO TRINITY FUND

Durham, Sept. 28.—James B. Duke has again made large gifts to Trinity College. President Few announced today that Mr. Duke has given $25,000 to the new gymnasium that he will give $50,000 towards a $100,000 law building; that he will give $50,000 towards a $100,000 building for the new school of religious training; and in addition to these gifts he is adding $1,000,000 to the endowment of the college.

These gifts are made by Mr. Duke as his part in the program for the immediate further development of the college.

The smartest thing I ever heard said was by a good, motherly old soul who everybody loves. She lost her husband many months ago, and when asked why she never married again, replied: "I have never happened to run across the man I would trade my pension for."—Topeka Capital.

REGISTRATION BOOKS TO OPEN NOVEMBER 7

Raleigh, Sept. 27.—Registration books for the election to be held on November 7 may be opened on October 5, chairman of county boards of elections were advised in a letter today by Colonel P. M. Pearsall, chairman of the State board of elections.

Colonel Pearsall's letter modifies part of a letter sent to the county chairmen on September 16, which would have fixed October 7 as the date for opening the books. In his letter today, Colonel Pearsall explained that the attorney general on September 15, 1902, held that "the twenty days before the day for closing the registration books did not include the Sundays in that period."

"Since that time, to-wit, 1902," Colonel Pearsall's letter said, "there has been as many as 12 sessions of the general assembly, (general and special) and no change has been made in the language of the section so construed by the attorney general. Also since 1902 this construction of the law has been uniformly observed.

"In deference to the opinion of the attorney general and long continued and unbroken custom, I modify that part of my letter of September 16, and advise that registration books may be opened on October 5, 1922."

Where Extra Service is Demanded Firestone Cords Predominate

WHEREVER the exacting and tests of tires are most severe—there you will find Firestone Cords in universal use.

The hard jobs seek Firestone. And so well has Firestone responded under difficult conditions—so consistently has mileage mounted to totals impossible to obtain from ordinary tires that today Most Miles per Dollar is the buying slogan of thinking motorists everywhere.

The blending and tempering of rubber, gum-dipped cord construction, air-bag cure—all these mileage methods have been developed by men whose life work is the production of constantly increasing tire values for the public.

Users in this vicinity verify Firestone reputation, and report almost daily some new Firestone record of extra distance travelled.

Don't be satisfied to buy tires—buy values—the longest mileage at the lowest price consistent with such reliable performance.

Make Most Miles per Dollar your principle of tire economy—choose your next tire on that basis.
