POSTAL RATES CHANGE BUT 3-CENTER STAYS

Washington—Postal rates went up January 1 on nearly everything but first-class mail and penny post cards.

The biggest changes, so far as the average Post Office customer is concerned, are in air mail rates and the cost of sending small-size greeting cards.

Air mail postage went up from five to six cents an ounce on letters and small parcels weighing up to eight ounces. Bigger packages, which are easier to handle, will continue at the postal zone rates effective last September.

A new air post cards costing four cents, has made its debut.

Small greeting cards less than three inches wide and four inches long, formerly mailed for 1 1/2 cents if unsealed, hereafter will cost three cents, sealed or not. Unsealed flat pieces more than nine inches wide or 12 inches long also will cost three cents.

Other third class mail will cost two cents for the first two ounces and one cent for each additional ounce up to and including eight ounces.

Parcel post rates went up to 10 cents for the first pound, one cent for each of the next nine pounds, and three-quarters of a cent for each additional pound from 11 to 70 pounds.

Special delivery charges on mail weighing up to two pounds stepped up from 13 to 15 cents.

Money orders also cost more. Those valued up to $2.50 will cost 10 instead of six cents and $100 orders will cost 35 instead of 22 cents.

Farm land values are now above the peak prices of 1920 in all but 12 states. In North Carolina, current land prices are 50 per cent higher than the top 1920 figure.
