Plant Gardens Now
To Get Best Foods
For Freezing

Select the best varieties of vegetables for freezing is the expert advice of Mrs. Lula P. Austin Home Service Advisor for the Duke Power Company.

Mrs. Austin says the time to begin the conservation and preparation of foods for freezing is in the selection of the best varieties of seeds for the garden. And the time is about here for planting.

According to Mrs. Austin some varieties of foods make better frozen products than others. All vegetables should be gathered in while in a fresh, tender stage. Blanching, cooling and packaging, according to instructions by the time table, are highly important in freezing foods. Freezing rapidly and storing at zero temperature, or below, is a must, said the Home Service Advisor.

Plan Garden Well

Mrs. Austin said that with these instructions and suggestions in mind plan your garden for the purpose of supplying your family with fresh garden vegetables each month in the year. Freezing vegetables takes far less time and work, and produce far better products than does canning.

"From State College Cooperative Extension Work in Agriculture and Home Economics we have the following valuable information on varieties that are best for freezing:"

Asparagus—Mary Washington; broccoli—early green sprouting de-cicco; snap beans—Kentucky Wonder (Pole); Tendergreen (Bush); lima beans—Fordhook U. S. 242 (bush) Siera (Pole); Henderson—(Bush); Challenger (Pole) Fordhook type; Cauliflower—early snowball; super-snowball; sweet corn—golden cross bantam (yellow), Ioana (yellow), Stonewall evergreen, Hybrid (white); okra—Louisiana green velvet; Ciemson spineless; English peas—Thomas Laxton, Progress, Wando; blackberries—Eldorado, Common Wild.

SPEAKING OF LOVE MESSAGES

It seems that an Indian in New Mexico was smoke signaling love messages to his Injun Sweetie Pie a few miles away. Right in the middle of it, the atom bomb test went off, covering the sky with smoke for miles.

"Gosh," cried the Indian enviously. "I wish I'd said that!"

TO WHOM?

Tommy: "What's the matter, has your girl turned you down?"

Billy: "Yes, I haven't heard from her for a week."

Tommy: "I thought she said she would write every day."

Billy: "Yes, but she didn't say to whom."

Pullet Projects And Poultry Work

Pullet projects for 4-H Club members are doing much to promote interest in better poultry production throughout North Carolina, says C. F. Parrish, in charge of poultry extension work at State College.

More projects are being sponsored this year than ever before, Parrish adds. Some 500 club members in more than 40 counties are receiving 100 sexed pullets each. After raising the chicks, each member will exhibit 12 of his best pullets at a county show, at which time the birds will be judged and classed according to their development. Proceeds from the sale of the pullets shown will be used to start new projects next year.

Extension poultrymen and agents who supervised the projects will decide which members are to receive awards for having done the best work.

United States growers last year produced a total of 11,732,000 turkeys—8 per cent less than in 1947, and 14 per cent below the 1942-46 average. California led all other states with 4,693,000 birds.
