ability to wage war is dependent upon our ability to produce munitions of war. And that, in the long run, will be largely dependent upon the health of the population.

War effort involves avoidable health hazards. Men are working harder, longer, and at jobs to which they are not accustomed. Millions are leaving homes for factories. Unless possible protection is given their health, an impairment of production due to fatigue will be the result. And fatigue paves the way for dread diseases, such as influenza.

Modern medicine is devoting its energies to this problem. The doctors are giving us which all should follow. Good and proper rest are essentials. If any medical maladjustment puts a strain on your health, consult a physician. He will grant you the best care of you—back remedies.

is in itself a con-war. Remember that at home is as good health on the island. The citizen who dissipates his energies is a potential danger.

esteem in which the American people hold their "free press" emphasized recently during the advance of National Newspaper Contributions already made in the war effort by the National are noteworthy.

In addition to keeping the people fully and truthfully informed, the "enemy fire," check- "enemy propaganda intended to demoralize and mislead our and taking its place "on the line of the war," the newspaper fraternity has assured war effort in a very and substantial way.

According to The New York Tribune, 300,000 newsboys distribute 900 newspapers have 10,000,000 in war stamps up to November 10. More than 10,000 other periodicals have contributed free space devoted to the war bonds valued at $65,000,000 based on Treasury Department estimates. In addition to the scrap drive, in which newspapers all over the country are participating, is proving to be an outstanding success.

The newspapers have demonstrated not only their flexibility, their integrity, and devotion to the cause of their country, but have proved in a very practical way their ability and power to perform much needed services voluntarily and without reserve.

Sunday School Lesson For November 1st

"The Christian View of Marriage"

Gen. 2:18-24; Matt. 19:3-6; John 2:1-5.

(By Edwin Miller)

GOLDEN TEXT: "Marriage is honorable in all."—Heb. 13:4.

The home is the oldest of all institutions. It is the institution in which life is begotten, born, reared, nurtured and equipped for the responsibilities of life. If it were possible to wreck all other institutions and leave the home, the home would rebuild the others. The child who has the blessings of a Christian home learns lessons of love, loyalty, lawfulness, truthfulness and honesty. If the home is un-Christian the child must form a good character of his own will-power despite discouraging home influences.

"The First Marriage."
Our Genesis reading records the making of woman and the first marriage. God had made all the beasts and creatures of his creation. Adam was made and was told to name each animal and creature. But among all God's creatures man could not find a creature like himself. In the midst of the animal kingdom he was still alone. "And Lord God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him."

Humanity is not fully represented in either man or woman alone. Man supplements woman and she supplements man. Each only because he is lonely, but because he is incomplete, unfitted to do what is in the mind of God for him.

God performed the first operation much like doctors do today. He caused the patient to fall into a "deep sleep." Woman was created from an extracted rib, "not made out of his head, to rule over him, nor out of his feet to be trampled on by him, but under his arm to be protected; and near his heart to be his beloved."

"Jesus on Divorce."
Some of the excuses for divorce in Jesus' day are worse than those of Reno today. Moses said a divorce could be obtained if the man found "some unseemly thing" in his wife, or if she "no longer found favor in his sight." Some in Jesus' day interpreted this that if a man got tired of his wife, if her cooking did not suit him, or if he saw a handsomer woman than his wife, he might put her away.

The Pharisees asked Jesus about the matter, and our Master simply went back to the Genesis record, and said "What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." Here his lesson is that the marriage is "recorded in heaven," is a divine institution, a sacred union which should be religious and permanent.

The conception of marriage as only a civil contract is dangerous. For that reason I believe every couple should be married by a minister because this impresses upon them the spiritual side. If only a civil contract, civil laws say it can be broken again and again as often as divorce suit is made. But when God has joined two together in Holy Matrimony, it is a sin for anyone to encourage legalized adultery.

Another dangerous tendency today is to lose one of the main purposes of marriage. From the beginning it was God's purpose for mankind to reproduce, to "replenish and multiply." Thus this is a basic and an essentially divine purpose. Among the Hebrews, children were the "glory of the family." Today some think only in terms of self, comfort, pleasure, career, money, convenience, and security than parenthood and the improvement of the nation by building glorious Christian homes. COME TO SUNDAY SCHOOL SUNDAY.
