Mrs. Allred Severely Injured In Accident Saturday Morning

Mrs. John Allred, Jr., suffered severe cuts and bruises about the body and head Saturday when the car she was driving was in collision with a truck belonging to the Carolina Power and Light Company on highway 20 between Lilesville and Rockingham.

Mrs. Allred had been on a visit to her old home at Mooresville and was returning to her home here. There was no one in the car with her at the time of the accident. From the best information obtainable the Allred car was trailing a Carolina Power and Light Co. truck and had pulled out to the side of the road to pass the truck when the driver of the truck suddenly turned off the road to the right. At the time the truck made the turn Mrs. Allred had already gotten along side of it and consequently crashed into the side of the truck.

The Chevrolet car driven by Mrs. Allred was a total wreck, while she herself suffered severe cuts and bruises about the body. An examination at the hospital showed no serious injury had been suffered by her. She is expected to be able to leave the hospital the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Allred only recently moved to Red Springs from Rockingham. Mr. Allred is employed by the B. and C. Chevrolet Company.

Bancroft Is Ringer In "Thunderbolt"

Harlem—that strange black metropolis in the heart of the world's greatest city! The intriguing sights of its pulsing street, mad, jazzical night clubs, its hidden retreats.

A human drama taken from the front pages of the newspapers—a strong-man terror who kills with one punch; a girl gangster in the grip of environment; a youth "framed" into Sing Sing. Characters that flit across the news horizon daily and disappear into the void of the law.

Sing Sing—and the Death House! Reproduced on the screen as it really is. Inhabited by the people who compose it, transient population . . . thinking, fretting, active people . . . condemned people.

A great dramatic climax . . . Bancroft, the killer, facing the victim of his "frame-up" across the fatal corridor in the death house. The fate of his victim mirrored in the killer's sardonic face. Suspense . . . cold, hard breathless drama.

The greatest emotional scene ever conceived—a wedding in Sing Sing's condemned row. Once in a while, you read about such a thing in the newspapers with amazement and wonder and a catch in your throat. Now you will see it. Love's greatest gesture, in "Thunderbolt," at the Red Springs Theatre Today and Friday.

D. M. McMILLAN DECLINES POST ON SCHOOL BOARD

Personal Business And Other Reasons Given; New Curriculum Adopted For School; Survey Course To Be Introduced.

Mr. D. M. McMillan appeared before the school board at a called meeting held Thursday night and notified them that he could not accept his appointment to the board as a member to which position he was elected at a previous meeting of the board. Mr. McMillan gave as his reasons for declining to accept the appointment the pressure of personal business. He stated that he had just recently purchased the Ford agency at Fairmont and that took a great deal of his time there. And another reason for not accepting the position, as stated by Mr. McMillan, was the fact that the Ford Motor company required him to give service on all cars and trucks sold and if a member of the board he would be prohibited by law from taking the contract for servicing the school trucks.

No action was taken by the board to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. McMillan declining to accept the position.

Superintendent Pugh, the newly elected head of the school, was present at the meeting Thursday night and requested authority of the board to re-arrange the curriculum in the school to conform to curricula recommended by the State Board. This authority was granted. Superintendent Pugh also asked authority to introduce a survey course aimed to help the student in the selection of his life's work. This is a new course for southern schools although it has been in use in the northern schools for years. The possibilities of such a course are unlimited and should prove a great stimulant in keeping the students, who normally drop out of school during the first two years of high school, in school to complete their high school work.

The board was advised that the new superintendent had decided to recommend Mr. R. J. Ormand, of Bessemer City, for the position of athletic coach for the coming year. Mr. Ormand is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and has had several years experience teaching and coaching high schools. Miss I. Studebaker, of Littleton, Va., was recommended for the additional high school teacher. Miss Studebaker is a graduate of William and Mary College. She is an experienced teacher in high school science and home economics. Both were elected to the positions for which they were recommended.

The election of these two teachers leaves only one vacancy in the faculty for the coming year, that of First Grade B. A young lady has been tentatively selected for this position and contracts sent her but no action was taken in her case at the meeting Thursday night as the contracts had not been returned at that time.

Upon recommendation of the superintendent, the board decided to allow those pupils who failed to pass the seventh grade last year to take an examination for the high school in September in all cases where the records of the pupils justified it or where the child was prevented from taking the regular examination on account of sickness.

Veterans Will Help Take Next Census

The intention of the Census Bureau to give preference to war veterans, whether disabled or not, and to their wives or widows in the taking of the fiftieth decennial census is announced by the Director of Census, William M. Stewart, in a letter just made public. There are to be approximately 100,000 enumerators appointed throughout the country, subject to examination, but not subject to Civil Service requirements.

The Census Bureau now is engaged in organizing the force of supervisors who will be required, a task which will be well advanced by the coming of autumn, the director says. It is then the intention of the bureau, Mr. Stewart adds, to take up the selection of the big army of enumerators for the nation-wide task of canvassing the population, agricultural and other statistics. These enumerators, he says, while not under civil service, must nevertheless demonstrate their ability to do their work.

The director's statements were made in a letter addressed to Representative Louis Ludlow, of Indianapolis, Ind., in response to the latter's inquiry as to the Census Bureau's policy toward war veterans.

Mrs. J. A. Love is spending the month of August with her sister, Mrs. J. H. Sandford, at Camp Alice, Mt. Mitchell. Mrs. Love left for Mt. Mitchell last Saturday accompanied by her son, Mr. J. A. To Exhibit N. C. Progress At Fair

Raleigh, Aug. 6.—Plans to bring back a large proportion of the 24,000 native North Carolinians who are now residents of other states to the North Carolina State Fair, October 15 to 19, and to their home communities for the weekend preceding the fair, are making rapid progress.

Col. J. W. Harrellson, director of the Department of Conservation and Development, has appointed a local committee in every county to take charge of the plans for the local celebration, and these committees are expected to begin work soon.

Fair officials are busy planning interesting exhibits which will show the wanderers a graphic form the remarkable progress which the State has made during their absence.

Among the speakers which have been invited for State-Fair Home-Coming Week is President Hoover.

"Thunder" Mighty Drama Of Rails

Lon Chaney rides the roaring rails in his latest role on the screen, one of the most interesting in his career, as the veteran locomotive engineer in "Thunder," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's saga of the railroad, coming Monday and Tuesday to the Red Springs Theatre.

He pilots the Limited through a perilous run to the rescue of refugees in the Mississippi floods. The story gives an intimate view of the inside lives of railroad men, their joys, sorrows, and the drama of their calling, and contrasts that with the thrills of onrushing engines, rearing railroad yards, and the huge shops where the building of an entire locomotive is seen.

Lumberton's Tobacco Market Well Equipped

By G. E. Webb, Sou. Tobacco Journal Lumberton, Oct. 7.—The Lumberton tobacco market is attracting much attention these days from the tobacco trade everywhere. On account of the spirit of cooperation manifested by the citizens of the city and by their friendly attitude towards all visitors, Lumberton is becoming known as "The Friendly City." After many years experience in the warehouse business, I am in the position to say that the tobacco market is as well equipped with experienced warehousemen and buyers as any market in the Southern tobacco states. This is a well established fact.

I am glad to say that tobacco is selling well now, and I am sure prices will advance as offerings get better. The average now for everything including common ground leaves at first curings around 20 cents.

REVIVAL MEETING AT LUMBER BRIDGE CLOSURE—SUCCESSFUL

The series of revival services at the Baptist church closed Wednesday evening. In spite of a heavy rain at preaching hour Wednesday evening a large crowd heard the last sermon of Rev. M. O. Alexander, who had been helping Rev. G. Scott Turner. One could not conceive how convincing and convicting Mr. Alexander's sermons were until he'd laid the naked truth of the Bible before him. The church received twenty-one new members, seven by letter and fourteen by baptism.

The baptismal service was held on Thursday evening in the Baptist church. After the song services Rev. Mr. Turner explained the reason for baptism. The service in its reverence was beautiful and impressive. Mr. Alexander left Thursday morning for his home at Thomasville.

A Real Opportunity For Local Women

$1,250 Offered For Best Jar of Canned Food In National Canning Contest.

Just how good at canning are Red Springs women and girls? That question suggested itself today from an announcement in Chicago of a National Canning Contest to find the best jar of canned fruit, vegetables or meat in the country. Twelve hundred and fifty dollars in cold cash awaits the woman or girl in the United States whose entry is selected as the best jar of canned food entered in the contest.

The contest, which is sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, seeks to acquaint more housewives with the economy and healthfulness of home canned foods. For years the U. S. department of agriculture and home demonstration agents throughout the country have worked for an increased production of native canned foods. It is to further this excellent idea and at the same time to help absorb the threatened surplus of farm products in many sections, that this canning project was conceived.

Two hundred and twenty-two cash prizes, totalling $5,825, will be disbursed to the winners in the contest, which has three major divisions: fruit, vegetables and meat. The best entry in each division will be awarded $250, and one of these will also receive the thousand dollar sweepstakes prize, thus bringing the total cash prize for the best jar of canned food in the contest to $1,250. Second prize in each of the three divisions will be $200, third prize $100, and fourth prize, $50. There will also be five prizes of $25 each, prizes of $10 each and fifty prizes of $5 each. In addition, a thousand dollars in cash will be awarded to the home demonstration agent whose county sends in the greatest number of entries, $500 to the agent whose county has the next largest number, and $100 to the agent whose county sends in the third largest number of entries. A number of lesser merchandise prizes are also offered.

Contest Closes October 15th

According to the rules, the contest is open to every woman and girl in the United States. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent, any fruit, vegetable or meat, whether home grown or purchased, is acceptable. Contestants may enter one, two or all three divisions. Entries, regardless of when canned, must not be sent in prior to August 15 nor later than October 1, which is the closing date of the contest. No entries will be returned, but instead these will be sent, with the name and address of the contestant to an orphanage, hospital, infirmary or other charitable institution to be selected by the Foundation.

Specimens of canned fruits and vegetables in the contest will be judged on the basis of clearness, color, pack, neatness, flavor and texture. Meat specimens will be judged in their relation to pack neatness, texture and flavor. There will be three judges, to be selected by the Foundation from a list of outstanding authorities on home economics, domestic science and canned food. Their decision will be made known just as soon as possible after October 1.

Gives Hints on Canning

"Any method of canning may be used for this contest," announces Arne Williams, director of the contest. "The use of a steam pressure cooker, however, is highly recommended by canning experts and by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, especially in canning meats. Not only does this method of canning save time and fuel and assure absolute sterility and preservation, but food canned under pressure retains all its natural flavor and texture, and are vitally important in any canning contest."

The judges may be thorough impartial and the display of canned samples absolutely uniform contestants are required to submit their entries in standard glass jars of the quart size. All contestants will be furnished with one Ball mason jar and carton for sending in a canned article, but those making entries in more than one division are expected to supply their own jars and shipping cartons. The sample jar and prize entry labels for use in submitting entries may be secured without cost by communicating with the headquarters of the National Canning Contest, 325 S. Homan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
