Flora Macdonald Club Meetings

The October meeting of the Flora Macdonald student commercial club was held in the Epsilon Chi society hall on Wednesday evening with the new president, Jean Parker of Pollockville, presiding. Approximately 30 members were present.

The program, centered around Flora Macdonald, The Woman, was in charge of Hettie Lee McPhail of Rowland, who gave a brief sketch of the life of the Scottish heroine. Miss Letta McIntyre, head of the commercial department, showed the girls the collection of prizes which is owned by the college. Dean Frances McLeod and Dr. Louisa Van Dyke were guests of the club and Mrs. McLeod told the members something of the history of the Shrine on the campus, where the bodies of the two children of Flora and Allan Macdonald, who died in America, are buried.

Other 1949-50 officers of the club are Ann Highsmith of Rocky Point, vice president; Peggy Henderson of Charlotte, secretary-treasurer; and Jane Moore of Wilmington, official reporter.

Also on Wednesday evening, the Highland Players, student dramatic club—held their first meeting of the college year. Miss Gertrude Wade, new faculty adviser for the club, gave an informative talk on "The Origin of the Drama."

18 members were present, and tryouts are being held for cast members to present the first play in the near future.

Officers of the club are: president, Carleen Moulder of Hope Mills; vice president, Sophia Zea of Strasburg, Virginia; secretary-treasurer, Jacqueline Blackwell of Florence, S. C.; and reporter and custodian, Mary Emma Cantley of Kingstree, S. C.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY often has been accused of having bootlicked the labor unions ever since F.D.R. first ran for the presidency. But it wasn't the unions—it was the bosses! The party figured that the bosses could lead them by the nose; and to make sure, they passed laws and made rulings which gave these bosses almost life and death power over the ordinary members.

The game worked until a patriotic congress—the 80th—passed a law—the Taft-Hartley law—which gave back the union member some of the freedom and dignity which as an American citizen he was entitled to receive. The big labor dictators went wild; they threatened and cajoled, and scared the incumbent administration into its attitude against the Taft-Hartley law.

So, the Taft-Hartley law having been sidestepped, the labor bigshots are again on the throne and it is going to require another patriotic congress and/or a Republican president to bring these haughty dictators down to our level.

At the moment of this writing the bootlicked hens are coming home to roost, and they're roosting all over 12 million union laborers as well as on 125 million of us common folks. We all have to suffer cold and hunger when John L. Lewis waves his expensive cigar at us as his slaves. And don't stop with Lewis; there are Murray and Bridges and several other foreign importations. The "clams" for this degrading situation are those Republicans who prefer golf, fishing, etc. to voting; those who believe that "my one vote won't make any difference"; those of the 12 million union members who are still unaware that the Taft-Hartley law gives them back much of their freedom; the stupid members of the Republican high-command who wouldn't even take the trouble to refute Mr. Truman's election baloney about the 80th congress. But most of all it is the fault of the American farmers. They believed every promise that was made them and they didn't even take the trouble to count the consequences to themselves if those promises were kept.

Miss Estler Davis spent the weekend in Wake Forest visiting friends.

Miss Anne Williams spent the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Jerry Houck of Orangeburg, S. C.

Ellen Horton spent Sunday with her parents in Roxboro.

Miss Ethel Laleman went to her home in Sumter, S. C., to visit her mother over the weekend.

Mrs. J. S. Howell and daughter, Becky, of Burlington, spent last week here with Mrs. Howell's father, W. M. Ridge.

Kenneth Sheets of Plainfield, N. J., stopped over in Red Springs to visit his brother, Roger Sheets, and Mrs. Sheets on his way from Florida.
