Edmund L. Loughnan Appointed to Head Language Department at Pres. Jr. College

FORMER TEACHER AT ASHEVILLE SCHOOL FOR BOYS

Presbyterian Junior College announces the appointment of Mr. Edmund L. Loughnan as professor of French and Spanish and head of the language department. Mr. Loughnan comes to Presbyterian Junior College from the Asheville School for Boys, where he has served since 1946. Previously, he taught two years at the Gunnery School, Washington, Connecticut, where he was Director of Studies for the whole school. For 15 years previous he was professor of French language and literature at Brown University, Providence, R.I., where he was also Director of the junior honors work. Born of English parents in southern France, Professor Loughnan learned to speak French as a child and came in contact with Spanish just over the border from his childhood home. His secondary education was at Whitgift School in England. At Christ Church College, Oxford University, he majored in Latin, Greek, and history, receiving both the B.A. and M.A. degrees. After graduation he began teaching in the United States.

But No Cash

Mr. and Mrs. John Pace returned last week from a trip to the eastern part of the state. Among the places visited were Newbern, Arapahoe, Camp Don Lee, Oriental, Cash Corner, Hobucken and Auroda. Mr. Pace says he was particularly interested in visiting Cash Corner. He says he found the Corner, but no Cash.

Christian Viewpoint

Prepared by Department of Bible, Presbyterian Junior College, Maxton, N. C.

Beria is in the same prison where he used to send so many helpless people, that is unless the word "liquidate" in the Russian broadcasts means he has already been put to death by the same methods which he used in serving Stalin's tyranny. Some underling has been made head of the state police — his name has been announced but it doesn't matter. It is a pity someone cannot go to him and say, "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." (Matt. 25:52) Men may fool themselves into thinking they are protected, when they are unjust and cruel, if they act within the forms of law and have behind them the power of the state. Truly, it is the function of government to bear the sword, to be used in putting down wrong and protecting the right. "He does not bear the sword in vain; he is the servant of God to execute his wrath on the wrong-doer (Romans 13:4 R. S. V.). However, one who uses the sword in the name of the state is nevertheless personally responsible for his acts. He should resign if the state demands that he do evil and unjust things. He should only support the state in acts of righteousness. Beria has learned that he who supports cruelty and tyranny is nourishing a pet tiger which will sooner or later turn upon its keeper. The only safety for any one man is in protecting the rights of all others and in holding hard to the path of justice and charity. Beria might well have quoted the words of the infamous Cardinal Thomas Wolsey in 1530 when he was cast out by King Henry VIII after he had let himself by the tool and hatchetman for the king: "Had I but served my God as faithfully as I have served by king, He would not have given me over in my gray hairs." It is written in God's moral universe as well as in Scripture: "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap." (Galatians 6:7).

Professor Loughnan Speaks To PJC Students

Students at Presbyterian Junior College Summer school were addressed in Chapel by Professor Edmund L. Loughnan, of Asheville, N. C. on the subject "Growing As Christians." In introducing the speaker, the President of Presbyterian Junior College spoke of Mr. Loughnan's birth in France of English parents, early youth in France, education in England, service as naval radio operator in World War I, attendance at Christ Church College, Oxford University, where he received the B. A. and M. A. Degrees, and career as a professor at Brown University, Gunnery School and Asheville School for Boys.

Some 2 Hundred Strong Were In Attendance at McKenzie Clan Reunion

The descendants of Murdock and Catherine McBryde McKenzie and their friends gathered about two hundred strong for a reunion at Centre Church on August the second.

The day's festivities started with a hearty welcome address by Mr. A.L. Campbell and a response by Mrs. Rebecca Wilkinson. The devotional was conducted by the Rev. Charles Donnell. In absence of the Clan historian, Mary Conoly, Dan O. Campbell brought the history up to date. Glen Crofton, Jr., gave a piano selection. Mrs. Alex McKenzie, the Clan president, adjourned the meeting in favor of the picnic grounds.

After a mighty fine dinner and a lot of chatting, the clan dispersed, looking forward to another year.

McLean Clan Reunion Last Week Had 51 Members Present from 4 States

All School Children Must Be Vaccinated

All children who are entering school for the first time this fall must have a certificate of immunization against whooping cough, diphtheria and smallpox. Dr. Hardin, county health officer, urges parents whose children have not completed their immunizations, to have these immunizations completed without further delay.

You may go to your private physician or to one of the health department clinics.

A clinic is held in Maxton, over Dr. Croom's office, every Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at the Health Center in Lumberton every morning from 9 to 12.

Robeson Farmers Urged To Control Insects

By O. P. Owens
County Agent

We have a Korean truce but the battle between Robeson farmers and insects and diseases goes on. Willie McMillian, Route 4, Lumberton has a field where Black Shank will destroy three-fourths of the tobacco by the end of harvest.

Red spiders have destroyed two-third of the cotton in a field on W.A. McCormick's farm near Rowland. The tenant on the farm said, "the spiders began spreading from wild violets along the highway when workers mowed the right-of-way three weeks ago." McCormick is going to dust this and adjoining fields with sulphur at the rate of 15 lbs. per acre to control this pest.

R.B. Tolar, near St. Pauls has an outbreak of Red Spider in his cotton fields. This outbreak started from polk weed near the end of the row. Tolar said, "I have Black Shank, Grantville Wilt, Nematodes, Southern Root Rot, boll weevils—now Red Spiders on my cotton. Do you know of anything else I don't have?"

This is certainly enough to discourage any farmer. However, he is making plans to plant a variety of tobacco resistant to Grantville Wilt and Black Shank next year and to get a self propelled sprayer to fight the insect.

Large Group Enjoy Melon Feast at Morris Home

Some two to three hundred persons enjoyed the twentieth annual watermelon cutting at the Fairly Morris home between Johns and Maxton Wednesday night. Ice cold watermelons in abundance were sliced end to end and under the lights fine fellowship was expressed midst the sumptuous feast.

Preceding the feasting part of the program, a hymn sing, was conducted on the spacious lawn of the Morris home where temporary seats and a rostrum had been arranged. Dr. Bob Croom, Bill Stewart, John Crabtree and William Kennedy sang two appropriate quartet numbers and Mr. Kennedy led the group in several hymns.

Following a scripture reading and prayer by the Rev. Charles L. Donnell, pastor of Maxton's First Presbyterian Church, Mr. Morris welcomed his guests to this outdoor social which has grown from year to year into one of the largest outdoor fellowship meetings in this section.
