Correspondence

So many nice things happen to me. In the mail last Monday was a box containing a necktie, upon which, in the latest decorated fashion, was emblazoned the seal of the Presbyterian Church. A merchant friend in a nearby city enclosed his card with a notation saying he thought I would like to wear it. He must have known the ensignia of Presbyterian Junior College is that seal of the church surrounded by a scroll with the name of the college on it.

The seal is interesting. At the top is a star, symbolizing Jesus Christ, "the root and off-spring of David, the bright morning star" (Rev. 22:16) of prophetic hope. Whose star heralded His coming into the world. (Matthew 2:2). The dove above the shield is the Holy Spirit of God, coming down from above to bless and guide His people. (John 1:32, Mark 1:10, Matt. 3:16). The lamp burning is the Light of the World, for the light shineth in the darkness and the darkness has never put it out. (John 1:5). The burning bush (Exodus 3:2-4) represents God's presence in the world in the Church, which is ever burning itself out in service and sacrifice, yet is never consumed. The long records of persecutions has never killed the Church. The laurel wreath proclaims the victory and final triumph of the Church as the agency of truth and love. The Latin quotation "Lux lucit in tenebris" is translated "Let the light shine in darkness."
