Missing Airliner Sought In Arizona Mountain Area As Wreckage is Sighted

Plane Had Left Burbank, Calif., Saturday Morning and Had not Been Reported Since.

EIGHT PASSENGERS ABOARD

GALLUP, N. M., April 5.—(AP)—The Sheriff's office at St. John's Ariz., reported today the wreckage of an airplane had been located a mile and a half from Alpine, 60 miles from there.

Searchers for a Douglas airliner lost since Saturday with eight persons asked for quick details.

The wreckage was sighted in the general area where John T. Buckler, operator of a resort lodge at Greer, Ariz., said he saw a big transport plane circling Saturday afternoon in a snow storm.

Alpine is about thirty miles southeast of Greer with inaccessible mountain country between. It is about 30 miles south of Springerville, Ariz., near the New Mexico state line.

The Alpine telephone operator said she was without information on the report.

Meantime, the St. John's Ariz., telephone operator related how the report came from the wife of Willard Bond, a government ranger and that searching parties were organized by state police and sheriff's deputies.

Mrs. Bond, the operator said, told how her own son came in their house Saturday afternoon saying he believed a plane had circled overhead and later crashed but she did not attach importance to the child's story until hearing that an airliner out of Burbank, Calif., was missing.

The plane, a Douglas transport, hopped off here at 10 a. m., Saturday morning and was being ferried across the country to be shipped from New York to Holland for delivery to the Royal Dutch air line. It was equipped with a radio sending and receiving set. The pilot, Glen Moser, 30, had no scheduled stop, except Kansas City.

Bad weather was reported over Arizona.

Two records indicated eight persons besides Moser and co-pilot Joe Wofolk, 32, were aboard but George V. Stratton, assistant to the Douglas Corp. president, could give only the following list, besides the two fliers:

E. R. Moser, 55, father of the pilot.
Merle Estey, 29, Douglas engineer.
Mrs. Lucille Estey, his wife.
Bernard Troy, Jr., 33, parking station operator.
George Kent.
Mrs. B. R. Uderlin, mother of a Douglas employee.
Kent and Troy were guests of the pilots.

Senate Rejects Anti-Strike Rider to Guffey-Vinson Bill

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP)—The Senate refused today to write a condemnation of sit-down strikes into the Guffey-Vinson coal bill.

It rejected an amendment denouncing sit-downs as "illegal and contrary to sound public policy."

The vote was 48 to 36.

The amendment was introduced by Senator Byrnes (D-S. C.) and was fought bitterly by administration leaders who claimed that any senate expression on sit-down strikes should be made in an independent resolution and not in connection with the coal bill.

Defeat of the Byrnes amendment climaxed several days of debate in which some adherents of a quick vote on the proposal argued the senate should not sidestep or delay the strike issue for any reason.

At the start of today's session Byrnes refused to withdraw his demand for an immediate vote.

DEFENDING CHAMPION ABSENT

By Howard Burns

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C. who last week added the North and South title to her laurels yesterday flashed around the long number one course at the Southern Pines Country Club in the Ninth Annual Women's Mid-South Championship in 39—39—78 to lead a field of forty women golfers in the thirty six hole medal tournament. Trailing four strokes behind was Virginia Guilfoil, the Syracuse University sophomore who tied with Mrs. Karl Scheidt of Norristown, Pa. with 41—41—82 for second place. Aileen Hoover of Thomasville, another North Carolina star, was in third place with 42—42—88 and not far behind was Mrs. T. E. Wiederseim, of Philadelphia, who carded a 46—41—87.

Mrs. Page was one stroke under women's par on the first, second, fifth, eighth and ninth holes and one stroke over on the sixth. On the inward voyage she was under par on the tenth, thirteenth and seventeenth and one stroke over on the eleventh and fifteenth. Miss Guilfoil, although unaccustomed to sand greens was out two strokes under par but was one over on the return round. Mrs. Scheidt, who also played a steady game, was out two strokes under par but was one over on the homeward stretch. Both golfers netting one under par for the eighteen. The course is considered several strokes harder than the Pinehurst number 3, and this is largely responsible for the higher scores.

Mary Kuhn, of Aspinwall, Pa., and Helen Waring, of Pinehurst, played a steady game, getting long drives on a number of the holes but experienced trouble with the sand greens. Miss Kuhn carded a 47—44—91. Other low scores, were turned in by Eleanor Barron, of Southern Pines, who carded an 88, Lydia Sherer, of Chicago, an 89 and Mrs. Richard D. Clemson, of Middleton, N. Y., a 91.

Exceptional Hawaiian Music Featured At The Dunes Club

Ramajo and his tropical troubadours, well known Hawaiian orchestra, has been engaged by the Dunes Club, exclusive Sandhills night club, for an extended engagement. This orchestra had great success at the Versailles, in New York, and previous to that, at the Palladium, London.

Their distinctive rhythms and individual arrangements of popular music and tropical tunes have made them one of the most popular dance orchestras and general entertainers of the various metropolitan centers in which they have been featured. Their music creates a mood of romance and glamour which is in keeping with the Springtime atmosphere of this resort community. They are replacing Howard Lally and his orchestra, who left for New York to fill a booking at the Salon Madrid of the Fifth Avenue hotel.

THE WEATHER

North Carolina: Partly cloudy Tuesday, preceded by rain on the coast. Cooler in the west portion. Wednesday fair and colder.

One Hundred Forty-Eight Entrants to Begin All Over Again Today.

GEORGE T. DUNLAP, JR., HAS A 70

By A. Linde Fowler

A torrential rain that was almost a cloudburst, accompanied by thunder and lightning, caused the postponement of yesterday's qualifying round of the annual North and South Amateur golf championship. The rain came in such volume that the greens were under water, and the bunkers were miniature ponds, so that putting was out of the question. The fairways had what might be termed casual land, rather than casual water. The doubly unfortunate part of it was that the storm held off until mid-afternoon, so that approximately half of the field of more than a hundred and sixty starters completed their rounds, many of them without getting even a drop, some completing the last few holes in the storm. The trouble was that there were others who had only just started when the storm broke in all its fury. The committee in charge of the tournament had no alternative, under the circumstances, but to call off the entire play, because it would not have been fair to make the late starters face such conditions, and well-nigh impossible for some of them even to get around before dark because they were still going off the first tee at three thirty o'clock.

On account of the postponement, it is altogether likely that either tomorrow or Thursday there will be two rounds of match play instead of one. Some of the players were in hopes that the double round would be played Wednesday, but it hardly seems probable that that will be the program, because of the size of the field, even though some drop out. The idea of using both the No. 2 and No. 3 courses for match play is not altogether feasible, for the reason that there are many transients not in the tournament who have to be accommodated, and it would be unfair to them to curtail their playing privileges.

The postponement robbed George T. Dunlap, Jr., at least temporarily, of the distinction of leading this largest and strongest field for years, in the North and South, because he had turned in a seventy, which undoubtedly would have stood as low of the day. The defending champion, who first won the title in 1931, did not defend in '32, but won again in '33, '34, '35, and '36, was out in thirty-four and back in thirty-six, from markers that were pretty well back. He scrambled for his first two pars, sank a six footer for his three at the third, missed his four at the fifth by hooking his second, sank a fifteen-footer for a birdie at the seventh, went wide with his second to the eighth and took a five, but registered his birdie four out with a par at the ninth.

At the long tenth, he had only a five-footer for a birdie four: at the thirteenth he was not on in two, but got his four; at the fourteenth, his second was trapped on the right, costing him a five; at the short fifteenth, he missed a six-footer for a deuce, and at the par 5 sixteenth his ten-footer for an eagle three hung on the lip of the cup but would not drop. He got his three at the seventeenth, and was left with a par-4 at the eighteenth to break seventy. Here he got a quick hook on his drive into the rough, got a good out and pitched eight feet from the cup, whence his putt for a sixty-nine only lipped the cup. His card:

Out 443 543 353—34
In 444 453 435—36—70

Charlie Whitehead, the long-hitting New Jersey champion, was second at postponement time, with a seventy-four. He three-putted no fewer than five greens in his thirty-six out and thirty-eight home.
