PUNCENCIES.

"Miss Bunk says she feels as free as a bird in her rainy-day skirt." "Well, she looks like a jay."—Chicago Record.

"Louise, what has become of your French poodle?"

"Why, Harry made the dealer take him back; he didn't understand a word of our French."—Detroit Free Press.

Nervous Employer—"I don't pay you for whistling."

Office Boy—"That's all right sir, I can't whistle well enough to charge extra for it yet."—Tit-Bits.

"What is an exit, Pa?"

"Exit, Freddy? Well, it is a Latin placard hung around on the walls in theatres and opera houses to keep people from thinking they smell fire."

Indianapolis Journal.

Mistress—Jane, this floor doesn't look very clean. Did you sweep it to-day?

Jane—No, Mum—I didn't sweep it to-day, nor yesterday, but I swept it three times the day afore that.

Chicago News.

"Did you ask the division superintendent for a trip pass?"

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"He told me to trip past."

—Chicago Tribune.

Mrs. Casey—And that was the strangest thing ye see in Paris, Mrs. Rooney?

Mrs. Rooney—Frinch polacemin!

Mrs. Casey—And that was there strange about French Polacemin, Mrs. Rooney?

Mrs. Rooney—They was Frinch!—Puck.

Clergyman—My child beware of picking a toadstool instead of a mushroom.

They are easy to confuse.

Child—That be all right, sir. Us bain't agoin' to eat 'em ourselves—they'er agoin' to market to be sold.—What to Eat.

"Our typewriter girl is awfully clever; she can sharpen lead pencils."

"Pooh! Ours can beat that. She has five clerks in the office dying to sharpen them for her."—Collier's Weekly.

Tramp—Wot's th' good of a little dog like that?

Mrs. Rural—To keep off tramps.

"He! he! Wot kin that little critter do?"

"He can bark, and that will wake up the big dogs under the porch."

"Y-e-s, mum. Good day, mum."

New York Weekly.

Papa—I hear you were a bad girl to-day, and had to be spanked.

Small Daughter—Mamma is awful strict. If I'd a known she used to be a school teacher, I'd a' told you not to marry her.—Harlem Life.

"What did Bridget say when she broke the last cut-glass bowl we have?"

"She said it should never happen again."—Chicago Record.

No story which has appeared in recent numbers of McClure's Magazine was more generally commented upon than Kate M. Cleary's, "The Stepmother." Editors throughout the West discussed certain points of it, one going so far as to question whether in Nebraska there is such a thing as a "rustred stone." In the November number of McClure's will appear another story by the same author, entitled "The Mission of Kitty Malone." This Thanksgiving tale breathes the same deep, sincere features which distinguished Miss Cleary's earlier story.
