PINEHURST is a Unique Town in the SOUTHLAND

Apparently a Yankee village dropped down in the woods. It is located in the highest and driest part of Moore County, North Carolina, in the well-known sand belt, and among the health giving long-leaf pines. It is 70 miles southwest of Raleigh and 125 miles from the sea coast, at an altitude of 650 feet, and noted for its healthfulness. The village was founded by Mr. James W. Tufts of Boston, in 1895, and consists of fifty cozy cottages, elegantly furnished hotels, boarding and apartment houses, public casino, village hall, schoolhouse, store, museum and other public buildings. The Carolina, the largest hotel in the state, is a magnificent four story hostelry erected this season, with appointments calculated to gratify the most luxurious tastes. The Holly Inn is quiet and home-like, with all modern comforts and conveniences. The Berkshire has been enlarged to more than double its former size, and is up-to-date in every respect. The Casino has a cafe where excellent table board may be obtained at moderate rates. This building also contains a ladies' parlor, game room and a reading room supplied with the leading periodicals for the free use of the villagers. Bath rooms are also to be found here. The houses are all substantially built, painted and plastered, well furnished and supplied with all modern comforts and conveniences, including electric lights, Pinehurst spring water, and perfect sanitary drainage. Golf experts and all those who cherish the hope of becoming such, will find excellent opportunity to indulge in the game. The Pinehurst Links covers 150 acres of fenced land, is recognized as being among the finest in the country, and attracts critical players by the great variety of natural and artificial hazards. The well known professional, Donald Ross, is in charge of the links, and is assisted by his brother Alex, until recently professional at Dornoch, Scotland. Their services are available as instructors. There are also croquet grounds, tennis courts, bowling alleys, trap shooting, billiards, quoits and shuffleboard. The village offers unequalled attractions for refined people at a very moderate cost. Pinehurst is only eighteen hours from New York, and a Special Pullman Sleeping Car from Washington over the Seaboard Air Line Railway and the Southern Railway runs direct to the village. Trolley cars connect with Southern Pines, a station on the Seaboard Air Line Railway.
