OLD PLANTATION DAYS!

Vivid Pictures in Negro Dialect, of
This Life.

Stories Gleaned from an Old Colored
Mammy's Reminiscences—Other
Book Notes.

"Old Plantation Days" by Martha S. Gielow, published by R. H. Russell, New York, is a collection of plantation stories, told in negro dialect, which give vivid pictures of many phases of this life, and an acquaintance with some of its most interesting characters, which are fast passing from sight.

One of its most charming features is the tribute paid to the old negro "mammy," and from her the author has, as she states in the preface, "gleaned many of the facts of the stories." These reminiscences are varied, some sad, some tragic, some humorous, some weird.

Here is the description of how "Marse Willie" rode away to war.

"I never will fergit dat day. Ole Prince pawed de groun', an' Jerry (the negro boy) wuz er grinnin' f'um year ter year—he so proud to be settin' on de black colt, gwine to de war wid his young Marsa. * * * We was all er standin' right hyar on dis ve'y gall'ry, waitin' fer ter see 'em ride off to de war. Miss Lilly looked lak er snow-flake in 'er white linen dress, an' 'er beautiful young face mos' es white as de frock. But she never shed er tear—dat she didn'! She smile an' wave 'er han' an' hurray an' sing Dixie, an' holt you (the baby) 'way up, so Marse Wille c'd see you des de las' thing when he rid off." * * *

The chapter devoted to a colored preacher's sermon is particularly good, and the appeal for a contribution at the end, a fitting climax:

"Now, my brethren, I wants to tell you one mo' thing, an' dat is dis: Dar is three things what is necessary fer er preacher to have fer ter preach de gospel. Knowledge in de haid, de sperit in de heart an' money in de pocket.

"Now, I is got de knowledge in de haid, an' de sperit in de heart, but, Brethren, I ain't got no money in de pocket. I ain't er preachin' fer money: I is preachin' kaze it is my callin', but den, Bredren, I is 'bleeged ter have dem th'ee requirements, an' I only calls on yer fer ter s'ply me wid one uv dem.

"I will now call fer de third requirement, an' I hopes you will shell out de nickels an' de dimes in Br'er Perry's hat. Br'er Perry, will yo' please ter step erroun' an' take up dat requirement, commonly called de collectium. I specefied de nickels an' dimes, but dar will be no rejection ov two-bits, nur three-bits, nur fo'-bits ef anybody is er mine ter gib 'um."

The volume closes with a dozen verses, in negro lullabies and the like, which are perhaps, one of its most interesting features. Here is "Mammy's Luck Charm fer de Bride."

Hyar, honey, take dis little gif
An' place it nigh yo' heart,
'Twill keep erway dat litt' rif
What causes folks ter part.

Hits only des er rabbit-toe,
But den, de luck it brings
Is wuf er million dimes an' mo'
An' all de weddin' rings!

Be sho' you wear it in yo' bre's,
Pertie'lar on de day
De preacher come ter pray an' bless
An' jine yo' han's ter stay.

Des keep it, honey, an' you'll fine
Hit hol's er magic spell
Ter make yo' lover true an' kine
An' han'some, des es well.

Er rabbit foot what's congered right
Lak dis un is, I know,
Will make you always glad an' bright
An' good an' putty, sho.'

The book is attractively bound, with a cover design in white, green and brown, and is illustrated with photographs of plantation scenes and types.

Baby's Baedeker.

"Baby's Baedeker" by Col. D. Streamer, published by R. H. Russell, is to quote the title an "International guide book for the young of all ages. Peculiarly adapted to the wants of first and second childhood." The book opens with a dedication, proclamation and invitation and then takes the reader on a tour around the world, visiting many countries and closing with a post graduate trip to Dreamland, Stageland and Loveland.

Here is a sample from "United States of America."

This is the Country of the Free,
The Cocktail and the Ten Cent Chew;
Where you're as good a man as me,
And I'm a better man than you!
(O Liberty, how free we make!
Freedom, what liberties we take!)

'Tis here the startled tourist meets,
'Mid clanging of a thousand bells,
The railway running through the streets,
Skyscraping flats and vast hotels,
Where rest, on the resplendent floors,
The necessary cuspidors.

And here you may encounter too
The pauper immigrants in shoals,
The Swede, the German, and the Jew,
The Irishman, who rules the polls
And is employed to keep the peace,
A venal and corrupt police.

The volume is printed in "primer" type on rough deckle edge paper, liberally illustrated, and has a title page and cover in colors.

The Roycroft Catalog.

The new catalog of "Some Books for Sale at Our Shop," issued by the Roycrofters, East Aurora, New York, is something that book lovers will prize for itself, alone, beautifully printed in two colors, and richly illustrated. In connection are printed various descriptions of the Roycrofters and their work copied from newspapers and magazines.
