PROMINENT GOLFERS. NO. 3.

George C. Dutton, Winner of the Pinehurst (1901) Championship.

THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK prints this week, the third of its series of portraits—Prominent Golfers at Pinehurst—with George C. Dutton of the Oakley Club, Boston, as the subject.

Mr. Dutton is a frequent visitor here, attracted by the excellence of the course. He is a prominent figure in golfing and social circles around Boston and is an excellent player. He was the winner of the 1901 championship tournament at Pinehurst.

IN WASHINGTON'S HONOR.

Women from The Harvard Entertain at Golf Club House.

The regular Saturday afternoon tea at the Golf Club House was made the most delightful of the series, through the interest and efforts of the committee of women from The Harvard, which had the affair in charge. A special feature was introduced by making the affair an observance of Washington's Birthday. The observatory room was daintily decorated with flags, and red, white and blue, and portraits of George and Martha Washington were conspicuous. The serving table was made unusually attractive by the use of tri-colored streamers, which extended from the corners to the ceiling above. In the centre of the table rested a tiny Jerusalem cherry tree and on either side of it were the identical hatchets (for it is now generally conceded that George could not have cut down so large a tree with a single hatchet) that the illustrious father of his country used to properly celebrate the anniversary of his birth, and at the same time demonstrate that he could not tell a lie. Tiny souvenir pasteboard hatchets, painted in water color, were given to visitors.

Mrs. Byron A. Stone of Mohawk, N. Y., Mrs. C. A. Lockwood of Brooklyn, and Mrs. S. W. Earle of Chicago, gowned as Martha Washington was gowned when she entertained, poured, and Mrs. G. W. Murdock of Cold Spring, N. Y., and Mrs. W. W. Trickey of Jackson Falls, N. H., served. Miss Stone and Miss Bertha D. Stone of Mohawk, N. Y., assisted, and Mistresses Marie Moore of Philadelphia, Marjorie Trickey of Jackson Falls, N. H., and Marion Murdock of Cold Spring, N. Y., were very sweet in Martha Washington costumes and very helpful as well.

ADAM PLAYING GOLF.

Andrew Shiland Wins Historic Statuette in Invitation Tournament.

The battle for the now world-famous statuette, "Adam playing golf in the Garden of Eden," the story of the discovery of which caused last week's edition of THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK to be well-nigh exhausted 24 hours after publication, took place last Friday. The event was an eighteen-hole invitation handicap match play event, and was won by Andrew Shiland, of New York City, with a score of eighty-eight.

Other participants were: George C. McNeir, John Pierce, D. W. Cooke, C. F. Wills, J. McCutcheon, Frank Presbrey, George C. Clausen, New York City; A. O. Whitman, Port Chester, N. Y., and J. Henry Hentz, Jr., Philadelphia.
