

AN INVITATION GERMAN!

Informal Affair Proves one of the Most Delightful of the Season.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney L. Smith Lead Through Series of Amusing and Pretty Figures—Many Exquisite Gowns Worn.

An invitation German at The Carolina, Friday evening, proved one of the most delightful of the informal social events of the season, in spite of the fact that the arrangements were completed in the space of a few hours. Thirteen couples took part, all guests of The Carolina, and a series of amusing and pretty figures was successfully carried out under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney L. Smith of New York City. Dancing began at nine and ceased at eleven. Many exquisite gowns were seen upon the floor, and a company which taxed the seating capacity of the hall witnessed the dancing.

Two of the most amusing features were the bottle and potato figures. In the first, six men were given empty ginger ale bottles which they were expected to take down the hall and stand upright on the impossible end, then making a rush for the limited number of women in waiting at the head of the hall. The men failing to secure partners danced together.

In the potato figure six men were given tablespoons with which to pick potatoes from the floor and to carry them to the women who stood holding dinner-plates to receive them. In this figure also, provision was made so that several men were left disconsolate in the center of the floor, at the end of the trial.

A pretty figure was a tally-ho, in which trios of men and women were driven about the hall, and then brought together in the center of the floor, where they danced with those standing opposite them.

The participants in the German were: Mr. and Mrs. Sydney L. Smith, New York City.

Mr. J. G. Thorpe, Boston, and Mrs. St. John Smith, Portland, Me.

Mr. R. H. Dana, Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. M. A. Crockett, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. John Walker, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. W. T. Jenney, Medford, Mass.

Dr. Montgomery A. Crockett, Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Lucy K. Priest, Boston.

Mr. Burrows McNeir, New York City, and Miss Florence Durstine, New York City.

Mr. H. O. Curtis Davis, New York City, and Miss Carew, Norwich, Ct.

Mr. H. W. Mason, Boston, and Miss Smith, Portland, Me.

Mr. J. S. Seabury, Boston, and Miss Stanton, New York City.

Mr. W. C. Chick, Boston, and Miss Levett, New York City.

Dr. W. I. Sowers, Washington, D. C., and Miss Stackpole, Ridgeway, Pa.

Mr. J. D. Barry, New York City, and Miss Latimer, Ashland, Wis.

Mr. Herbert L. Jillson, Worcester, Mass., and Miss Crary, Warren, Pa.

At the close of dancing came a ginger ale party which was followed by chorus singing. The last songs were "For he's a jolly good fellow," in honor of Mr. Smith, and "Good night, ladies," as a pretty compliment to the charming hostess, of the evening, Mrs. Smith.
