FRIDAY, MAR. 13, 1903.

NATURE, like a waiting bride, is decking herself gaily in anticipation of the coming of Spring. Buds are bursting, tiny blossoms unfolding, and the air is balmy with fragrance and musical with the song of birds.

Among the most charming of the myriads of feathered songsters is the mocking bird, with his wonderfully beautiful, strangely fascinating song, a song which pleases because it is a suggestion of the song of other birds, an individual interpretation of them, and all great art is individual and suggestive! But best of all, the mocking bird realizes that art is for the many and not for the few, and so he comes close to the hotels and cottages to sing from dawn until sunrise.

And the reward is the greatest of all rewards, the gratitude of mankind!

I HAVE THOUGHT of you so often at the beloved Carolina, and know so well just how to picture you in those pleasant rooms and lofty corridors, that I cannot refrain from telling you how delighted I am to hear the place pleases you as I was perfectly sure it would. Every day it will grow more and more attractive, until March fills you with joy at the soft air, blossoming flowers, and glorious sunshine! It is indeed, a unique place which has a charm all its own. The lovely piazzas and sun corners, the pleasant walks, the seats under the pines, all these gave us great pleasure, and we love to recall the weeks spent at Pinehurst.

IN THE ABOVE extract from a personal letter, is found the open secret of the success and popularity of Pinehurst; the real reason why today, there are hundreds who wish to come here to enjoy the beauties of early spring whom it is absolutely impossible to accommodate.

MR. D. A. TOMPKINS, of Charlotte, N. C., has recently published figures to show that at thirty-five years old the earning capacity of a man with common school education and special training for his work is twelve and a half times greater than that of an illiterate untrained man; that the earning capacity of a man with high school education and training, is twenty-five times greater than that of the illiterate and untrained man; that the earning capacity of a man with college education and training, is thirty-seven and a half times greater

man, and that the earning capacity of a man with University education and training is fifty times greater than that of the illiterate and untrained man. So that the value to the commonwealth of the man with University education and proper training for his business is fifty times greater than the value of the illiterate and untrained man.
