

yards and the ball was put down for a two on a remarkable 15 yard approach.

The best previous record of the course was a seventy-two, thirty-five out thirty-seven in, made by Ross early in January and which lowered the course record of seventy-three, held by Harry Vardon, one stroke.

Ross' new card in detail is as follows:

PROMINENT GOLFERS, NO. 5.

B. F. Dutton, of Boston and the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, Mass.

THE PINEHURST OUTLOOK prints this week, the fifth of its series of portraits—Prominent Golfers At Pinehurst—with B. F. Dutton, of Boston, and the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, Mass., as the subject.

Mr. Dutton is a genuine Pinehurst Lover and has been a guest here annually since the foundation of the Village, attracted by the beauty of the climate, the charm of the place and the excellence of the golf course.

He is an enthusiastic golfer and makes the round of the course every fair day. He is besides, an all-round sportsman, with a particular fondness for quail shooting and fly fishing, in which latter art he is an expert, making frequent trips to Canada to enjoy the sport.

Mr. Dutton is the senior member of Houghton & Dutton, Boston. He and the late S. S. Houghton, were the originators and developers of the magnificent department store as it is seen today.

Special Sunday Music.

Mrs. von Grofe and Mr. Petit of The Carolina orchestra, play a duet for the cello and flute at the Union service in the Village Hall Sunday morning.

SHOOTING SEASON ENDS!

Birds in Plenty and Excellent Bags

Features of Closing Weeks.

Abundance of Birds Left to Breed for Another Season and Prospects for the Future are Very Bright.

The quail shooting season of 1902-03 was brought to an end last Saturday, the quail profiting by a day's additional protection, owing to the fact that the fifteenth fell on Sunday.

Philip Randolph, Master Randolph and Edward Conner, of Philadelphia, and C. H. Stanley, of Cleveland, O., spent the day in the field, starting five coveys and bringing in eighteen quail and a woodcock as the result of the trip, and pleasant memories of the work of Mr. Randolph's pointer, "Queen" and "Pinehurst Dick" which demonstrated very forcibly that birds will lie in March if the dogs work them carefully.

During the last four weeks Mr. Randolph and his friends have been much in the field, and some very satisfactory bags have been made.

A. C. Tower of Boston, took part in the last day's shooting, starting three coveys and securing eight birds.

C. A. Lockwood, of New York city, and J. D. Wescott, of Union City, Pa., secured twelve quail and four woodcocks on a recent trip, and fourteen quail and two woodcock on another.

F. E. Perkins, of Boston, and W. L. Bryant, of Schuylkill Haven, Pa., are credited with thirteen quail as a result of a day's outing.

C. S. Houghton and Benj. E. Bates, of Boston, tried quail shooting for the first time last week and had a rattling day's sport, starting eight coveys and securing seven quail and a woodcock.

Manager H. B. Stillings of the Department Store, and Dr. C. D. Jones, in an afternoon's hunt secured fourteen quail, killing ten birds out of a covey of sixteen.

G. W. Balch of Detroit, Mich., secured nine quail on a short trip, and C. A. Bassett, of Lynn, Mass., eight.

"Contrary to the usual rule," says Dr. C. D. Jones, manager of the Pinehurst Preserves, "the last two weeks of the season found the birds more plentiful and the covies better massed than early in the fall. I attribute this to the fact that the very warm weather during November and December and the birds remained in the shady branches, which offered excellent protection from their natural enemies, the fox and the hawk.

"I believe it is the general opinion of those who have been in the field recently that plenty of birds have been left to breed for another year, and that next fall will find the sport better than ever.

"We propose to stock abundantly and the plan of planting patches of cow peas for food, will be maintained throughout the preserves.

"The year's work has also developed many of the dogs and the equipment of the kennels is now the very best.
