from beginning to end, applauding enthusiastically the many brilliant plays and clever recoveries of the rivals.

No prettier, cleaner or better amateur golf has ever been seen anywhere, and the match will justly, take a place as one of the great contests of the year. Nine of the eighteen holes were halved, and the medal play scores were but a single stroke apart, eighty-one for Beckwith and eighty for Ward. On the fourth hole Beckwith was two down, but at the turn he had gained a lead of one which he lost at the fourteenth where he lost an opportunity to halve by a bad putt. He rallied, however, and took the fifteenth hole in a four to Wards five, and the three remaining holes were halved.

On the seventeenth hole Ward had a long putt for a two which he missed, halving with Beckwith in three. It is generally conceded that the match was lost and won here, for had Ward won the hole he would have been even up and no one can tell how many extra holes would have been played or what would have been the final outcome.

The last hole offered Ward little opportunity for he played stroke for stroke with Beckwith and when the balls went down in five each, and the rivals shook hands, cheering and applause went up from the big gallery the like of which had never been heard here before.

The story of the great battle is clearly and briefly told in the following table of detailed scores:

GOING OUT.

Beckwith 3 5 4 6 3 4 5 4 5—39
Ward 4 4 3 4 4 4 6 4 6—39

COMING IN.

Beckwith 5 4 4 4 7 4 6 3 5—42—39—81
Ward 5 4 4 4 5 5 6 3 5—41—39—80

About the Players.

Never were two players more evenly matched and previous to the contest no one cared to express a decided opinion concerning the outcome. Both players had their staunch friends and ardent admirers, but all realized that the match was one which results alone could determine.

Mr. Beckwith is a player whose name is known throughout the entire west and he is undoubtedly the best player in Cleveland and one of the best in Ohio. He has won numberless tournaments.

Mr. Ward is champion of the Fox Hills and Montclair Golf Clubs and has figured prominently in many events of national prominence. He is particularly strong at match play.

Both are as cool as the proverbial cucumber, and out to win from the time the ball is teed at the start until it is picked out of the last hole at the finish.
