JACKSON SPRINGS WATER

Cures indigestion, relieves rheumatism and the milder forms of kidney diseases. The spring is a freak of nature bubbling forth at the rate of a gallon a minute from the only large solid stone in the sand hill section. It should be seen. There is a first class hotel immediately at the spring kept by Mrs. Baxter, formerly of Pinehurst. For the bottled water and train schedules (ten miles from Pinehurst) see Mr. Berry at the depot.

Potash

is removed in large quantities from the soil by the growing of crops and selling them from the farm.

Unless the Potash be restored to the soil, good crops can not continue.

We have printed a little book containing valuable facts gathered from the records of accurate experiments in reclaiming soils, and we will be glad to send a copy free of charge to any farmer who will write for it.

BASE BALL PLANS

The Carolina Nine Organizes and Issues Sweeping Challenge.

Holly Inn and General Office
Teams Forming—Something Interesting Promised.

Something interesting in the way of base ball is promised very shortly, for several nines have already been organized and preliminary practice gives every indication of excellent results.

The Carolina team has its make-up complete, and authorizes THE OUTLOOK to extend a sweeping challenge to any nine in the Village or vicinity.

Head Bellman, John P. Mulcahey is the manager and the make-up of the team is as follows:

G. Dan Morgan, pitcher; William Trafton, catcher; Mark showing in the series of matches which are to be arranged.

The Management is laying out a ball ground on the Village Green, an admirable location, and announcements of games may be expected soon.

TO LIVE 100 YEARS.

Oldest Man in the World Tells How to Do It.

Alexander Ferguson of Gilman, Ind., said to be the oldest man in the world, says the observance of these rules are responsible for his long life:

- Be contented.
- Eat little meat.
- By all means marry.
- Be regular in all habits.
- Arise early every morning.
- Work but four hours a day.
- Do not smoke or chew tobacco.
- Take refreshments every three hours.
- Never let the stomach become empty.
- Do not drink water, but cold weak tea.
- Be open hearted, generous and optimistic.
- Four hours sleep every night is sufficient.
- Eat as much as you want and whatever you want.
- Take long walks and spend much time in the open air.

FOR AN IDLE MOMENT.

Johnny is hiding from his papa. Can you find him?

John Yeager, head waiter at The Holly Inn, is busy forming a nine which he thinks will hold its own with the best of them, and will announce the make-up in the course of a few days.

Ed Ellis of the General Office, is also getting material together and thinks his team will be able to make a creditable

At the Market Garden.

Manager Lyons has things well in hand at the Market Garden and is making liberal contributions of vegetable delicacies to the menus of the various hotels.

More of the celebrated "Pinehurst cucumbers" which were so much enjoyed last year, are promised soon.

The Immigration Question in London.

The Allen is a charming bird,
He cannot say an English word;
He flaps his wings without a tear,
And leaves his home and settles here.

He cannot tell you why he comes
To overcrowd our London slums;
He only knows he's in a fix,
And here he comes, and here he sticks.
