THE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

THE WOMENS CHAMPIONSHIP

W. J. Travis, the Champion, Wins Easily in Final.

W. C. Freeman Takes Consolation Trophy in Hot Match With F. J. Bailey by One Up.

FRIDAY'S thirty-six hole match play rounds closed the United North and South Amateur Championship for 1904, and brought to an end the most brilliant tournament in the history of golfing here. From start to finish splendid golf and close matches were the rule rather than the exception.

In the final round for the Championship trophy, Walter J. Travis the amateur champion, had things much his own way, defeating Chas. B. Corey of the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, Mass. the runner-up, by the score of eight up and seven to play.

Corey was not in the brilliant form of Thursday and the champion was at his best. At the end of the morning round Corey was six down. He made a good rally in the afternoon, but the odds were too great, and the match ended on the eleventh hole.

Ideal weather was the rule throughout the week and the course was never in better condition. Its excellence and the ideal conditions for play were no doubt, largely responsible for the splendid scores. The various matches were followed with interest by large galleries, and the Club House and course were thronged during the entire week.

The tournament ends to-day with the thirty-six hole open "Southern Championship" event.

THE WOMEN'S Championship event of the big tournament began Monday and ended Tuesday, and a series of close matches led up to the final rounds. The introduction of a special cup for the consolation, or second eight to qualify, was a happy thought and this event was fully as interesting as the Championship.

Mrs. M. D. Paterson of the Englewood Golf Club, New Jersey, took the final round for the cup from Miss M. Eleanor Freeman of the Montclair Golf Club, by a score of five up and three to play, in a pretty contest. Miss Freeman played a splendid game going out and at the turn was only two down. She rallied at this point and took the tenth hole and missed a short putt on the eleventh for a win. From this point, however, the winner had things much her own way.

Mrs. Paterson's match in the first round with Miss M. E. Heffelfinger was a close and uncertain contest which was practically decided at the fifteenth hole. At this point the score was two up, in favor of Mrs. Paterson, who was obliged to make a long putt for a halve. The long sixteen hole, however, Miss Heffelfinger lost on a poor second shot.

Miss Freeman had a series of close matches before her final round with Mrs. Paterson, beating both Miss Edith Barnett of New Haven, in the first round and Mrs. William West of Camden, in the second, by a single stroke on the eighteenth green.

The consolation participants were well matched and the preliminary matches were hard fought. The final round for the cup between Miss Susan C. Aldridge of the Kearsarge Golf Club, N. H., and Miss Ethel Check of East Orange, New Jersey, was the feature of the women's tournament, Miss Aldridge winning the nineteenth hole by a single stroke.
