Presenting Trophies to Winners.—
Fifty-Eight Guests.

THE week had for its delightful feature a banquet at The Carolina tendered to participants in the Advertising Men's Tournament by the tournament committee, with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tufts as guests, Tuesday evening.

Fifty-eight covers were laid and dinner was served at 7:45, Mr. Presbrey and Mrs. Tufts, and Mr. Tufts and Mrs. Presbrey leading the party to the dining room. The tables were daintily decorated with cut flowers and ferns from the Pinehurst Nurseries.

A series of tournaments for the boys of the Village, was begun Friday, which promise to occupy the attention, not only of the participants, but of many on-lookers as well.

Two prizes were offered for the best net scores. The first a cup, was won by Master Levi D. Jones, and the second a box of confectionery, by Master Hayes, both of the contestants playing from scratch.

THE START IN THE FINALS.

were in order, Mr. Presbrey acting as toastmaster, the special feature being the presentation of the trophies to the winners by the runners-up in the final rounds, the President's cup, or chief trophy, won by Mr. Batterson, being passed around the board in order that all might drink his health.

The remarks of Mr. Robert Frothingham of Life were in a particularly happy vein. In opening he said he came to Pinehurst expecting to find Wilton carpets, pomp and ceremony, but instead found luxury and comfort combined with royal good fellowship. In closing he quoted Poe's poem "I find my warmest welcome at an Inn."

Mr. James McCutcheon, of Greenwich, Conn., was called upon as the oldest representative golfer present, and warmly welcomed. He urged his hearers to remember that when heads become gray and belts long, that they were not too old to still enjoy the game of golf.

"GIVE ME CHACK-EN!"

This is Demand of Guests After Visit to Poultry Farm.

The unusually early opening of The Carolina, and the large number of guests who were not only in the Village for the tournament, but who come for longer sojourns, has been responsible for "an awful slaughter" of fowls as Manager Chase of the Poultry Farm expresses it.

The average killing has been over one hundred chickens daily, and in addition many ducks and turkeys have been slain, over five hundred having been sent to the Carolina alone.

Manager Chase says the great demand is due to the fact that the visitors appreciate Pinehurst's equipment in this particular, bringing this food into special demand. A frequent remark heard among the guests who are daily visitors at the farm is, "Well, I am going back to the hotel and call for chicken; I feel hungry for it already."

The next "Birthday Party" at the farm will be Tuesday, of the coming week. Yesterday's hatching was very successful, the incubators turning out large percentages.
