

BRILLIANT AND UNIQUE

and her hair was brushed down tight, powdered gray, fastened in a close coil at the neck, and ornamented with a shell comb. A clever make-up of the face and the apparent loss of several teeth, changed her so completely that it was not until the prizes were given out that many of her most intimate acquaintances knew who she was.

Miss Estelle Rand, Troy, N. Y., won the prize for the most ludicrous costume as a typical "Sis Hopkins," with a dress positively hideous in its color combinations, and her hair tied in long, wiry braids.

Mr. A. G. Warren, Rochester, N. Y., won the men's prize for the best representation as a New England "Rube", his blue checked shirt, striped overalls and ear muff cap, old boots, hanging mittens and galloway whiskers, made him a picture which would delight the heart of any "confidence man".

Mr. Frederick A. King, Northboro, Mass., took the prize for the most ludicrous costume, with a "get up" which beggars description. He wore a blue suit with wide white collar cut decollete, a ribbon trimmed canvas hat and blonde wig; and the effect was further heightened by make-up and amusing antics.

WHAT THE WOMEN WORE.

Conspicuous among the many dainty and elaborate costumes worn by the women, was Marie Hemphill, Pittsburg, who wore figured muslin over green and a broad brimmed straw hat, trimmed with red.

Mrs. H. G. Rand, New York, was very dainty in white with pink apron and sunbonnet.

Miss Mary Wilbur, Canandaigua, N. Y., as "Sister Sue" wore an attractive hat and gown of white, with red trimmings.

Miss Elizabeth Macfarlane, Boontown, N. J., was daintily arrayed in white as "Mistress Betsy."

Mrs. B. deMossin, New York, made a winsome flower girl in a gown of pink check, with sunbonnet to match.

Mrs. M. D. Paterson, New York, wore a dainty girl's costume of pink, with hat to match.

Mrs. J. D. Foot, Rye, N. Y., was most demure as a Quakeress in a gown of sombre black, with white lace shawl and neck kerchief, and quaint Quaker cap.

Mrs. C. A. Lockwood, New York, made an attractive milkmaid in a gown of pink organdie, white apron and large hat.

Miss Ethel Check, East Orange, N. J., was a country girl in blue and white check; and Miss Edna Toffey, Jersey City, wore a similar costume of green and white.

Miss Helena M. Fisher, New York, was a dairy maid, in white with a checked apron and sunbonnet; and Miss Lowther, Pittsburg, "Maud Muller", in a similar gown, with a large straw hat.

Miss Bates, Ottawa, Canada, was a positively bewitching milkmaid in blue and white foulard, ruffled white apron and large hat, trimmed with pink.

Miss Libby Dunlap, Lowell, Mass., was most becomingly gowned in lavender.

Mrs. C. H. Rosenfeld, New York, wore an attractive figured dress, and Mrs. Geo. S. Hill was gowned in white.

Conspicuous among the ludicrous costumes worn by the women, was Mrs. M. B. Byrnes, New York, who impersonated "Carrie Nation". She wore a red dress partially concealed by a blue checked apron, a large straw poke bonnet lined with red, and adorned with two monster purple ostrich plumes; a hatchet completed the most amusing make-up.

Mrs. T. B. Cotter was strikingly realistic as a Pennsylvania farmer's wife; gowned in red calico and carrying upon one arm a basket of eggs, and on the other a basket in which was a very much alive Pekin duck.

Miss Margaret E. Smith, Portland, made a typical Maine farmer girl, in a gown of crimson figured gingham.

Mrs. J. Grant Anderson, Pittsburg, was a rustic washerwoman, and Master William a very lively farmer's lad.

THE MEN'S COSTUMES.

The men's costumes all leaned towards the ludicrous, humorous or realistic; and as a leader Dr. George S. Hill, Marblehead, Mass., as a "Good Boy", was easily a star. He wore a blue blouse waist with wide white notched collar, pink knee trousers, with white ruffles, and a white canvas hat trimmed with red ribbon, which was considerably added to by his amusing antics.

Mr. G. R. Wallace, Brooklyn, was a wonder in a blue striped gown with red overskirt and monster brown sunbonnet.

Mr. J. D. Foot, Rye, N. Y., was a faithful reproduction of a typical New England farmer in a linen coat and blue overalls, gray wig and chin whiskers.

Mr. M. B. Byrnes, New York, was easily "it" as a country dude, all in white, with trousers and coat which clung to him most affectionately.

Mr. Herbert W. Cost, St. Louis, Mo., impersonated the Indiana farmer, in costume and manner, to perfection, and Mr. Everett B. Lockwood, New York, his companion, was a realistic farmer boy.

President C. A. Lockwood, New York, was immaculate in a suit of white duck, with hat to match, and a monster pink ribbon tie and hat band.

Mr. H. S. Gordon, New York, and his brother, W. J. Gordon, as the twins, in blue overalls and jumpers, attracted much attention. And others who wore similar costumes impersonating farmers, farmer boys and hayseeds were:

Mr. H. Nelson Burroughs, Mr. Francis S. McIlhenny, Philadelphia; Mr. Marshall C. Parshall, Warren, Pa.; Mr. Allan Lard, Washington, D. C.; Mr. C. L. Becker, Boston; Mr. Samuel Smith, Warren, Pa.; Mr. John Patterson Ramsey, St. Louis; Mr. L. E. Wardwell, Camden, Me.; Mr. Charles E. Kaltenbach, Brooklyn; Mr. M. K. Waters, New York.

There were appropriate souvenirs for all the participants, appropriate to the occasion, which were distributed by Mrs. H. S. Gordon of New York, and Mrs. Herbert L. Jillson of Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. Gordon wore a becoming gown of white, with a large lemon apron, and a summer hat, and Mrs. Jillson was gowned all in white, with dainty apron and child's sun hat.

Mr. Beauchamp B. Fesseman, New York, sang the "Armorers Song" from Robin Hood most effectively during the evening, and for an encore, "Object Matrimony," from The Rounders.

ARRANGEMENT DETAILS.

Details for the vast amount of work in connection with the event fell upon a committee of ladies of which Mrs. H. W. Priest was the leading spirit, and in recognition of her services the Board of Governors have adopted resolutions and will present her with an appropriate souvenir of the occasion. President Lockwood, Secretary Warren and Mr. Kenyon, of the board, were also active in the work of preparation.

HOSTETTER THE WINNER.

Takes Net Score Cup in Friday's Pistol Shoot.

Friday's handicap tournament drew a good field, and resulted in close scores, D. Herbert Hostetter winning the cup offered for the best net score, with 335, and shooting with a handicap of 80. Mrs. B. B. Glenny, shooting from scratch, finished second with 327, and J. H. Johnston, whose handicap was 50, third with 321.

MISS RAND--MR. WRIGHT--

Winners of President Lockwood's Cups in Putting Contest.

The Tin Whistles putting contest, for two handsome sterling cups presented by President C. A. Lockwood, held on the clock putting green Thursday afternoon, was the season's prettiest event, and followed with interest by a large company of onlookers.

Miss Estelle Rand, Troy, N. Y., and Mrs. M. B. Byrnes, New York, tied for the women's cup with 28 each Miss Rand winning the play-off by a single stroke.

The men's cup went to E. N. Wright, Newton Centre, who won a tie play off at 24, from A. G. Warren, of Rochester, N. Y.

The scores of other participants were E. B. Lockwood, 25; Allan Lard, H. S. Gordon, M. H. Wilson, 26; C. E. Harrison, M. C. Parshall, 28; C. A. Lockwood, Mrs. C. B. Rosenfeld, Mrs. E. N. Wright, 29; Mrs. B. de Mossin, 32; Mrs. J. Grant Anderson, 33.

NORTON THE WINNER.

Leads Hostetter Three Targets in Tuesday's Shoot.

Tuesday's Trap shooting tournament, a fifty target scratch event, drew a good field of participants and many onlookers, W. P. Norton, New York, winning with 39, with D. Herbert Hostetter, Pittsburg, second in 36. M. H. Wilson, Cleveland, broke 33, M. C. Parshall, Warren, Pa., 32, C. A. Lockwood, New York, and H. Nelson Burroughs, Philadelphia, 28 each, O. F. Roberts, New York, 26, and W. J. Gordon, New York, 25.

Following the match there was a hundred bird match between teams including Hostetter, captain; Norton, Roberts, Wilson and Jillson; and Lockwood, captain, Parshall, Burroughs, Gordon and Hervey, which the latter team won by a single target, with 64 to its credit.

Interesting sweepstakes were shot Monday, in which Messrs. Wardwell, Hostetter, Burroughs, Taft, Lockwood and Adams participated.

THE HEATHEN CHINEE.

Berkshire Guests Use Him as Dummy for Unique Party.

One of the novel entertainments of the week was a Queue party at The Berkshire Monday evening, in which blindfolded participants were called upon to fasten the missing queue in its proper location upon a dummy Chinaman. When all had finished the queues adorned nearly everything in the room but the Chinaman. Mrs. A. S. Moore, Lynn, Mass., however, succeeded in placing the queue in its proper location, and was given first prize. Miss Bessie Schulte, New York, won the consolation prize, pinning the queue to the wall on the opposite side of the parlor from that of the image.

MR. CLARK'S BIRTHDAY.

Berkshire Friends Observe it With Party and Surprise.

The birthday anniversary of Mr. D. N. Clark, Westville, Ct., who is spending his sixth season at The Berkshire, was observed Thursday evening with a package party which furnished much amusement to participants and onlookers.

Mr. Clark was the victim of a little surprise, his package containing a vest pocket case with stirring knife and pencil. Refreshments were served after the frolic and an hour spent pleasantly.

Mrs. Foot Entertains.

Mrs. J. A. Foot, Rye, N. Y., gave an invitation bridge party of three tables in the Dutch room of The Carolina, Thursday evening, prizes being given for the highest score at each table. Mrs. H. S. Gordon, New York, Mrs. A. E. Lard, Washington and Mr. F. A. King, Northboro, were the prize winners.

At The Lenox.

Mrs. Mary A. Butler, Binghamton, N. Y., returns to the Lenox for her second season.
