Did You Ever Visit Pinehurst?

Did you ever visit Pinehurst?
That place so bright and fair
Where golfers win their prizes
And breathe the pure, sweet air?

The beauty of the landscape,
The food they give you there,
The water and the sunshine
Are plentiful everywhere.

The golfing links are royal
The Ross boys' play is rare,
And every one who plays the game
Will find good caddies there.

The golfing cranks are at it
At late and early day,
You hear the clicking clubs
As white balls speed away.

And when you start for "high hopes"
Your heart is light and gay,
If straight you hit the little ball
Two hundred yards away.

To make it five is good, you think,
But try for four you say
Sometimes the ball goes crooked
And penalties you pay.

They fix the ugly bunkers
And traps in every way
To catch the crooked drives
When games of golf they play.

And so the days go swiftly
Now fast they pass away,
I wonder now if you have joined
By golfing every day.
