CHRISTMAS DAY.

Religious Services and Quiet Observances the Features.

Christmas day was quietly observed with religious services at the Village Hall and quiet observances at the hotels and cottages.

The service in the Village Hall which was held at eleven, consisting of a sermon by Rev. Henry L. Foote and communion service; The Holly Inn orchestra assisting and Miss Hartman singing "Christians Awake," by Marza.

A special dinner at The Inn was an enjoyable feature, many coming in to enjoy it, and there were quiet home observances in the cottages, the evening concert at The Inn bringing the day to a close.

SANTA CLAUS WAS SUPREME

rather than breadth; also his delay in arrival.

At this point the gander, which Santa Claus explained would assist in the distribution of the presents, got troublesome manifesting every indication of mutiny, but was finally got under control.

The first gift handed out was a box of encyclopedias for Miss Sanborn of the General Office, "to assist her in the dispensation of information at the inquiry desk."

Gifts for the children in endless number and variety, followed, each gift being accompanied by a bag of candy and an orange, the hum of childish voices mingling with the witty remarks of Santa Claus as the distribution continued. One of the most pleasing incidents was the hearty thank you of an eager little girl (Dorothy Jones) who came forward for a toy cart which she dragged down the aisle of the hall to her seat, with glee.

When the gifts were all distributed Santa Claus bade good bye to the children who responded heartily, and with toot of horn, farewell hand wave and merry smile, clambered up the chimney and was gone. Music by the orchestra completed the program and the company disbanded with happiness and good cheer written upon the faces of all.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAM.

The program at the tree of the colored children, Tuesday evening, was in much the same order including music by the orchestra, a song by Miss Hartman, remarks by Rev. Mr. Foote, the arrival of Santa Claus and distribution of gifts.

The small children who occupied the front seats, were all given rattles and reins with bells, and there were gifts for all, each accompanied by an orange and a bag of candy.

Among the older people remembered were several who were welcomed with liberal applause, among them Uncle Demus, Uncle Charlie, Uncle Jim and Uncle Jake, who, by the way, is one hundred and thirteen years old, and walked ten miles to attend the observance.

Principal Persons, of the Dickinson school, made brief remarks on the need of education for the negro, following the distribution of presents, and the program ended with music by the orchestra.

AN ACTIVE COMMITTEE.

Santa Claus (Dr. George Sumner Hill), was assisted each evening in the distribution of presents by an active committee of which Mrs. T. B. Cotter, was the head, and which included Mrs. G. Lee Knight, Mrs. George S. Hill, Miss Mary M. Fiske, Miss Elizabeth Olney, Miss Elizabeth Macfarlane, Mr. G. Lee Knight and Mr. Lester Smith.
