through knowledge and foresight.

The hotel staff includes, as usual, many familiar faces: Room Clerk E. R. Wingate; Cashier W. H. Hobbs; Front Clerk F. M. Hunt; Steward Charles Colby; Head Waiter Harry Bennett; Porters Fred Knight and Calvin Edson; Housekeeper Mrs. Wingate; Barber John Mason; Billiard room attendant W. Trafton; Night Watchman Clarence Howland and others. Upon the bell row are Head Bellman Jack Mulcahey, Captains Bert Grey and Martin Finnigan, William White, Robert Shaw, Clarence Gurney and Ernest Taylor, and Miss Lydia and Miss Margaret Graves are again at the telephone.

AMONG THE GUESTS.

Among the first of the guests to register were Mr. A. J. Hanscom, Miss V. Hanscom and Miss M. France, New York, who return for the winter.

HEARD IN THE LOBBY.

Orlyndo—Your uncle hates me like poison.
Rosalind—Well, never mind that; Auntie hates on you, you know.

A midseason atmosphere is already apparent in which there will now be no diminution, until spring is well established. Old and new friends are returning and indoor social pleasures and outdoor sports are combining happily and contributing to the enjoyment of all.

Many old friends were in waiting when the hospitable doors of The Carolina swung back, Tuesday, several days in advance of the formal opening date, nearly forty registering during the first day, all joyous at getting back to what has come to be recognized as "home."

There is the same air of luxury and comfort which has always been so happily combined here under the able management of Mr. and Mrs. Priest; the same air of cleanliness and good taste, which is maintained year after year

Mrs. J. G. Buckley and maid, the Masters Buckley and Miss E. Jungbluth, New York, come for a long sojourn.
