MIDSEASON COMMENCEMENT

Week's Arrivals Push House Counts Well Along Towards High Water Mark.

Hotel Corridors Thronged With Congenial People and Happiness and Good Cheer Radiate.

THE week's arrivals have pushed the season well along towards the high water mark, old and new friends coming by the score, and the "house counts" of the various hotels are mounting merrily upward and maintaining a generous margin over previous years. Golf has been the centre of interest, but it has by no means crowded sports and pleasures both indoors and out, into the background, and various affairs have helped to put in a busy and pleasant week. Delightful sunny days, with a faint suggestion of spring in the air, have contributed to the enjoyment of all.

At The Carolina.

The Carolina is the centre round which the life of the Village radiates during midseason activities, and the week has witnessed many delightful affairs. The corridors are thronged with congenial people, and happiness and good cheer are radiated everywhere. A progressive bridge whist tournament occupied a portion of the week, and the regular Wednesday and Saturday evening dances were much enjoyed, many of the villagers joining with the guests.
