DELIGHTFUL WEATHER RULES

April Visitors are Making the Most of Life Out of Doors.

Blooming Flowers and Singing Birds are Holding Old and Bringing

New Guests.

HE week has witnessed the departures usual at this season, but a large number of old and new friends are lingering to anjoy the delightful weather which will rule until well through May. The Carolina closed its doors after a most successful season Thursday, but The Holly Inn and Lenox and Cedars and Magnolia have not as yet fixed upon closing dates and will remain open some longer.

> 1 At The Holly Inn.

Among the week's arrivals at The Inn are Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Penfield, Bridgeport, Ct., who will remain until the house closes.

Mrs. Martha A. Farist and Miss Lulu E. Farist, Bridgeport, Ct., will remain several weeks.

Mr. J. R. Smith, Miss E. Smith and Mrs. Brown, Bridgeport, Ct., will remain through April.

Mrs. A. L. Morek and Mrs. H. M. Nichols, Oil City, Pa., plan an extended visit.

Butt, Ill., and Mrs. P. E. Eutcher, Milwaukee.

Dr. Crockett and Family Settle on Old Dominion Farm.

Among the departures of the week which causes regret is that of Dr. and Mrs. Montgomery A. Crockett, who have spent three seasons here.

Dr. Crockett has purchased a handsome farm near Bedford City, Va., and will in future, devote himself largely to the occupation of farming.

Bedford City is located half way between Roanoke and Lynchburg, in one of the most beautiful sections of the state and on the edge of the Blue Ridge mountains.

The Lenten Devotee.

She dons a gown of dovelike gray, She puts wild violets on her hat; She looks down in demurest way, Disdaining light and idle chat.

Each morning and each evening, too, She goes to church unfailingly, A model of devotion true-

The lenten devotee.

Perhaps the nunlike gown of gray Accents the roses in her face: Perhaps the modest violets lay

On golden hair with added grace. Perhaps for her religious air, The sweeter and the tenderer, she;

The Holly Inn is one of the most attractive hotels in the South. Since it was built in 1895, it has been necessary to enlarge it several times to meet the constantly increasing demand. The interior is elegant, cheerful and tasteful. No modern convenience is lacking. There are bath rooms, electric lights, steam heat and open fireplaces. There is a call bell in every room, and all beds are furnished with best hair mattresses. An orchestra furnishes fine concerts daily, and also provides for dancing. The cuisine is unsurpassed. The waitresses are all white girls from the North. Rooms for billiards and other games are provided in the hotel.

A. I. CREAMER, Manager.

PINEHURST, N.C. spect, having electric lights, steam heat and several suites with bath, and with its cottage annex and large dining room, accommodates seventy-five guests.

The Cuisine is in charge of a competent chef, and the table service is guaranteed satisfactory.

will remain some time.

Mrs. C. A. Woolfalk and Miss Fontaine Burks, Richmond, Va., were guests of the week.

At The Berkshire.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stackpole, Lexington, Mass., will remain through April. Mrs. Coleman Lewis and maid, and Master J. C. Grant Lewis, Philadelphia, are spending the month here.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Adams, Rochester, N. Y., will remain several weeks. Mr. Charles Rehberger, New York, was a guest of the week.

But what for contrast's aid can care The lenten devotee.

She goes no more to routs and balls, To culture gives up all her mind; No more in round of shops or calls Her chief employment daily finds. Perhaps the sweetly serious frame Of thought relieves frivolity; But never to her such things name-This lenten devotee.

On Easter Day a gorgeous maid In silks and laces, colors fine, Will join in Fashion's gay parade, A star amid the rest to shine. If she's the nun it seems she is, Then how this butterfly can be Evolved from that prim chrysalis-The lenten devotee. -Baltimore American.
