Thanksgiving German at The Holly Inn is a Pleasant Prophesy.

Novel Figures, Unique and Varied. Entertain a Large Company of Village Guests.

HANKSGIVING at The Holly Inn was made memorable by the German of the evening, the occasion being one of the merriest and prettiest affairs of the kind ever held here. Novel figures, unique and varied, entertained a big company, the entire Village being present either to dance or watch the dancers. As a prophesy for the season's series, of which it is the first, it is a pleasant one.

The fun began at nine o'clock with a novelty in the form of a grand march in which many who did not dance took part, closing with introductions and a two step which ended in a floor favor figure. Various figures followed, Mr. Carlisle Tuttle of Naugatuck, Conn., and Miss Elizabeth Stifel of Wheeling, West Virginia, leading.

Among the novelties was the muff figure in which couples selected unknown partners by grasping hands through a huge muff, amusing complications resulting.

Another new figure was the envelope figure, in which young women distributed envelopes, each bearing varied inscriptions, such as "Please dance with me," "Please select a partner," or "Please go back and sit down."

There was also the tennis ball figure in which an over supply of men struggled for the possession of a tennis ball which meant a dance, and the candle figure in which the men were called upon to cross the room, light a candle and return to an insufficient supply of young women, the first to arrive winning partners.

The favors were positively fascinating and wonderfully varied because one of the conditions of an invitation was that each participant should bring five. As a result there was an assortment of about everything suitable to be found in the local stores: Violets, roses, carnations: confections, tinsel ropes and aigrettes; paper ropes and bells; animals, dolls and children's toys.

Mrs. Andrew I. Creamer presided at the favor table graciously, at intermission refreshments were served, and The
