Saturday, December 8, 1906.

A MOTHER of my acquaintance, for whose opinions I have high regard, tells me that the colored supplements which are a conspicuous part of big Sunday papers, and which are, primarily, issued to attract the attention of the children, are barred from the younger members of her family.

The subject is one which I had not given much thought, but a careful consideration of it and a critical examination of the colored supplements in question, has fully convinced me that the action is a wise one.

I have long wondered, in a vague way, just what the effect of following Buster Brown's remarkable career would have on the average American boy, and, from time to time, I have casually noted that there were features of the supplements which offended my taste, but I doubt very much, even if there were children of my own, that unaided I should have fully comprehended just what the real harm was.

The more I consider the subject the stranger it seems, for we all realize how impressionable a child is, and exercise great care in the matters of environment, example and discipline. In view of this why should we allow children to come in contact, week after week, with literature and pictures which would be the very last we would think of selecting in book form?

There is no necessity for going into detail regarding the supplements in question; suffice it to say that there is food for careful thought in the subject for all mothers.

EARLY SOCIAL ACTIVITIES prophesy one of the gayest seasons in the history of the Village, and it is a pleasant indication, for with it there is no lessening interest in outdoor activities. In a word it is but the natural consequence of the assembling of congenial people, and the result will be the forming of pleasant acquaintances which could be made in no other way.

Not alone is this confined to social pleasures in the general meaning of the words, but to open air diversions as well, for the present plans include not alone dances, teas and gatherings, but merry picnics, gymkhanas and other diversions in the fresh air and sunshine. Year by year this feature has been more conspicuous here, and its continuance is but a natural one in the growth of the Village.

The Tin Whistles have developed this among the men; teas, parties and the like among the women, and now comes increased activity in affairs which draw both men and women together and knit the Village closely into one great family, giving Pinehurst more and more the character of what it has always possessed conspicuously—HOME.

BASE BALL SEASON BEGINS.

Oysters Make Chowder of Clams in Thanksgiving Day Game.

Base ball fans witnessed the informal opening of the local base ball season Thanksgiving afternoon, and in spite of the fact that the nines were largely "picked up" an interesting game which promises good things to come, was the result. From the two teams material will later be selected for the Village nine which will be organized to keep other aggregations on the move from the first of the season until the last.

Apropos to the epicurean side of the day, more than through resemblance, the teams were dubbed the Oysters and the Clams; the Oysters coming first, as they should, with an even dozen to their credit, and the Clams following in chowder, to the tune of four.

A goodly delegation of rooters were in attendance and, as usual, their interest proved a mirth provoking feature.

The make up of the teams follows:

OYSTERS.		CLAMS.
Baxter	pitcher	Welsh
Steel	catcher	Boyle
Edson	first	Fitzgerald
Murphy, Wm	second	Brown
Fowden	third	Robinson, J.
Nolan	left field	Smith
Sechrist	centre field	Robinson, C.
Mann	right field	Murphy, W.L.
Charnock	short stop	Yaeger
	Umpire, M. F. Veno.

Vogue's Christmas Number.

Vogue (New York) regularly devotes its last special number of the year—the "Gifts Number"—to a full description, with profuse illustration, of all the articles new and standard, domestic and imported, suitable for Holiday gifts by people of taste. In this respect the current Christmas number, under date of December sixth, is most seasonable.

Every woman will find it indispensable in planning the holiday season's shopping, for it is full of interesting items and valuable hints about the wealth of fascinating things which are now being displayed in the fashionable shops of the Metropolis, and which very few women, comparatively speaking, are privileged to examine personally.

As the only fashion weekly published in America Vogue has already national prominence among refined people and is rapidly gaining in popularity, and the field of news it covers is the World. The price of the Christmas number, by mail, is twenty-five cents.

SEABOARD PULLMANS.

Parlor Car Service in Effect—Sleepers Arranged For.

Commencing December third, the Seaboard Air Line Railway inaugurated Pullman parlor car service on trains numbers 43 and 66 between Washington and Pinehurst, daily except Sunday. This car leaves Washington at 10:50 a. m. and arrives at Pinehurst 9:26 p. m. Returning the car leaves Pinehurst at 9:05 a. m. and arrives at Washington at 8:36 p. m. These trains have cafe dining car service between Washington and Aberdeen (Pinehurst Junction).

Commencing Monday, December seventeenth, they will inaugurate Pullman drawing room sleeping car service between Washington and Pinehurst on their trains numbers 81 and 84, first car (southbound) leaving Washington at 6:25 p. m. Monday, December seventeenth, arriving at Pinehurst the following morning at 5:57 a. m. (Passengers can remain in car until 9:00 a. m.). Returning these cars will leave Pinehurst at 11:02 p. m. (open for passengers at 9:00 p. m.) and arrive at Washington the following morning at 10:10 a. m. Cars will be operated daily except Sunday. Cafe dining cars between Washington and Richmond, serving supper (southbound) and breakfast (northbound).

All of the above trains make direct connection at Washington with fast trains via Pennsylvania Railroad and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to and from New York, Boston, Buffalo, Pittsburg and the Northwest.

ALL HIS OWN WAY.

Colonel Bogey Proves Invincible in Match Play Handicap.

BOWLING INTEREST GOOD.

New Feature Introduced in Afternoon Bowling for Women.

Bowling interest is good and promises an exceptionally busy season. Steps are being taken towards the formation of a league, and weekly trophies will be awarded for the high line individual strings.

A new feature in the way of matinee or afternoon bowling for women, will also be introduced this season.

Mrs. Leonard Tufts Entertains.

Mrs. Leonard Tufts entertained with an afternoon tea at the Mystic cottage Saturday afternoon from four until six, a large number calling. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. George S. Hill of Marblehead, Mass., and Mrs. Andrew I. Creamer of Charlevoix, Mich., who poured, and little Master James, whose serving was irresistible.

"What is the name of his new comedy?"

"Matrimony."

"Gee! does he consider matrimony a comedy?"—Houston Post.
