Ponies for Children.

The introduction of ponies for children is a new and pleasing departure of the local Livery Stable this season, which promises to awaken general interest among youthful equestrians. Last year there were donkeys in the park and they proved so popular that the step mentioned has been taken.

Children three years of age are not too young to be seen taking their first lessons in riding on the fat, comfortable backs of ponies. The size of the pony, his extreme loveliness, strength, hardiness and endurance all combine to make him first in the hearts of the children, and for that reason a young personage of decided prestige and market value. There is something appealing not only to the child, but to the adult as well, in the perfect conformation and poise of these tiny creatures, and it does not take long to establish a bond of friendship between the youngster and the diminutive pony that he can ride and harness like a "real" horse or play with like a dog.

Annual Masquerade Ball.

Plans for the annual masquerade ball of the Village employees are already under way, and there will be fun and frolic for all, both participants and onlookers. As usual, numerous prizes will be offered, the decisions being made by a committee of guests.

ONE VAST GAME PRESERVE

Shooting Privileges of Practically Entire State Under Lease.

Pinehurst Stands Forth Prominently as Resort for Sportsmen not Club Members.

THE TIME when North Carolina will be one vast game preserve is not far distant. Under the control of Pinehurst and in the immediate vicinity of the Village, is a vast tract of 35,000 acres, and the section round about here is practically all leased for shooting privileges, the private territory about High Point and Thomasville being notable in this particular.

Now news comes of the recent purchase the control of 22,000 acres of land in Cumberland County by a party of prominent New York men, all of whom have subscribed $5000 each with which to develop the territory. The new club will bear the name of the famous river Croatan, and the scheme is already so far advanced that a superintendent will soon be upon the grounds to take charge of the work of organization, so that the club members may enjoy the sport this season.

The organization of the new club brings forcibly to the attention of northern sportsmen the fact that practically all of the shooting territory of the state is closed to all but club members, and brings Pinehurst prominently before the public as a section open to all who are guests of the Village; in reality public territory as far as northern visitors are concerned.

One of the best examples of the coast clubs as well as one of the oldest, is the Currituck Club. This organization has twenty members, and a waiting list of over 100. Membership costs $20,000, and the $200,000 thus secured has been spent in the purchase of more than 12,000 acres, the leasing of twice as much more and in the erection of one of the finest clubhouses on the Atlantic Coast.

Directly adjoining the Currituck Club on the north is the Lighthouse Club; so called because its home is close to Currituck Light, one of the largest beacons of the entire coast. This organization is made up almost exclusively of retired army and naval officers, and is almost as old as its neighbors. It, too, maintains motor boat service with Munden Point, as does the Swan Island Club, its northern neighbor, and similar organizations located on Currituck Sound.

It is a foregone conclusion to prophesy that the time is not far distant when Pinehurst will stand forth prominently as the only section in a state famous for its quail shooting, where northern sportsmen, not club members, may enjoy hunting. It is but one of the many evidences of the generosity of the Village management in providing a wide range of outdoor recreation for guests, and it is becoming more and more appreciated each year as the conditions throughout the state are becoming better understood.

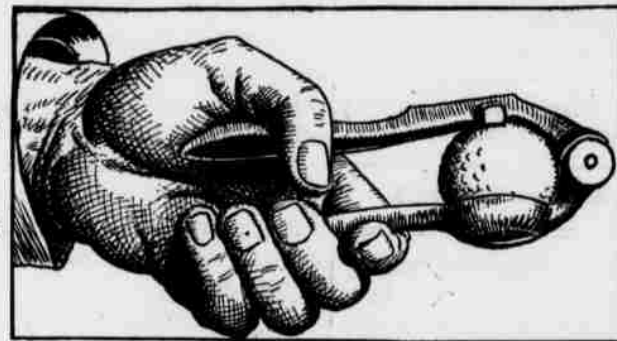

Novel Utilities Co.,

Dear Mr. Cory:- In the recent championship tournament at Forest Hill, N. J. I used the Cory Golf Ball Marker for the first time and desire to state that on several occasions it prevented my ball being played by others and so, perhaps saved me the championship. I heartily endorse it and recommend it to all practical golfers. I noticed that it was used by nearly all the pro's in the tournament.

Yours sincerely,

Alex Smith,
 Open Champion.
