Mr. and Mrs. Archdale Wilson of Toronto, will remain several weeks.

Miss Emily Bennett of Cape May, N. J., is spending the Holidays here.

For Winter Tourists.

Women members of the Pinehurst winter colony will find Vogue's issue of January 17th particularly interesting, devoted as it is chiefly to southern fashions. This number, entitled "White and Southern Fashions," is prepared specially for northern travelers who go southward in order to escape the rough winter of the higher latitudes, and for the permanent residents of the South for whom the modes suitable in the North are out of place. Though a special number, larger and more elaborate than the regular issues, it sells at the same price.

AN ENTERTAINMENT TREAT

Important Program is Announced for February and March.

Opie Reed, Senator Tillman, Fred Emerson Brooks and Prof. Willis Moore All Coming.

TREAT in the entertainment line is announced for the Village Hall during February and March, in the appearance of Opie Reed, the author, the John Thomas Concert Company, Senator Benj. R. Tillman of South Carolina, Fred Emerson Brooks, the poet humorist, and Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States Weather Bureau and President of the National Geographic Society.

The first entertainment of the series will be Mr. Reed's appearance February fifteenth, followed by the Thomas Concert Company on February twenty-first, Mr. Brooks on March second, Senator Tillman on March fifteenth, and Prof. Moore upon either March eighteenth or twenty-second.

Not only the prominence of those who are to appear, but the variety of the program offered as well, will serve to make the series a delightful part of the season's entertainment program.
