

Napier, Miss Kate B. Napier and Miss Annie F. Napier of Woodhaven, L. I., N. Y., made up a large party of Raymond excursionists who spent the week here.

At The Berkshire and Harvard.

Informal whist and bridge parties are occupying the attention of guests at these two hotels, and a morning musicale given by Mrs. Maud Campbell Fuller of New York, Wednesday, was enjoyed by all the guests.

Miss Mary Murphy, assisted by Miss Virginia Sayles, two very popular little girls here, gave a children's party Tuesday evening in which all the little ones participated. The usual juvenile games were enjoyed and dainty prizes were offered for various contests, Master Jack Potter and Miss Virginia Sayles being the successful contestants in the "spelling bee," and Master Charles Sayles and his sister winning in the guessing game, in which names of cities were the puzzles. Refreshments were served at the close of play, and it is expected that this will inaugurate a pleasant series of parties.

The return of Mrs. Maud Campbell Fuller of New York, is welcomed by all who met her on her previous visit, as a pleasant addition to the social set.

Mrs. W. W. Billings and her sister, Mrs. John Colby of New York, are two charming young matrons whose return has been welcomed by a large circle of acquaintances here.

At The Holly Inn.

Informal card parties have been the leading features of the week's entertainment at The Inn for the capacity list of guests, and dancing for the young people has been much enjoyed. An old-time reel, which was given on Tuesday, was a pleasant pastime for old and young and all joined in the fun and merriment. The weekly Thursday hop was well attended and a general invitation is extended to all guests of the Village.
