HERRESHOFF THE WINNER

Defeats Charles B. Fownes for Club Championship Honors.

Apawamis "War Horse" Foot Downs Gold Medal Winner Schatz in the Consolation.

THIRTY-SIX hole final rounds and a victory for Frederick Herreshoff of the Garden City Golf Club, over Charles B. Fownes of the Oakmont Club, Pittsburg, brought the annual Club Championship golf tournament and the most successful event of its character in the history of local golf, to a close Monday. Not only was the entry list record breaking, but the players in the first division represented many of the country's prominent golfers and a wide range of territory, giving the "championship" title new meaning this year.

The consolation cup went to J. D. Foot of the Apawamis Club, Rye, the former title holder, who defeated W. P. Schatz of the Wheaton Club, Chicago, winner of the qualification gold medal, by four up and three to play. Mr. Foot had much the best of it on the morning round, but the westerner more than held his own in the afternoon, but was unable to cut down the lead gained by the Apawamis "war horse."

The match of the week was between Mr. Herreshoff and Joseph D. Climo of the Cleveland Country Club, in the first round, the Garden City player pulling out by a stroke on the nineteenth green, and with a medal play score of seventy-six to seventy-eight for his opponent. At the turn with Mr. Climo three down it looked like an easy victory for Mr. Herreshoff, but when the next four holes went to the Cleveland player, giving him the lead on the thirteenth green, the gallery began to take notice of things. Mr. Herreshoff evened the score again on the fourteenth and the four remaining holes were halved in par golf, the nineteenth hole going to the Garden City player, 4-5.

In qualification W. P. Schatz of the Wheaton Golf Club, Chicago, led the field with a card of one hundred and sixty-one, winning the gold medal offered by the liberal margin of six strokes Mr. Fleming being next in line with one hundred and sixty-seven. Next in order was C. L. Becker of Woodland, and H. C. Fownes of Oakmont, who made one hundred and seventy-two and one hundred and seventy-three, respectively, with Mr. Foot and D. E. Little of Wollaston, tied at one hundred and seventy-four.
