THE MIDWINTER HANDICAP

MORE a question of who isn't coming, than who is", says George Lyon, winner of the Southern and Eastern Handicaps last season, regarding the second annual Midwinter Trap Shooting Tournament, booked for January 21, 22 and 23, "for mark my word, you'll see the shoot established this season as one of the half a dozen biggest in the country.

"From New Orleans to New York and from New York to Chicago, trap shots are looking forward to it and the men who will line up will represent the best of all sections. C. W. Billings of the New York Athletic Club, winner of the Handicap last year, will, of course, defend his title, and also G. H. McCarty of Philadelphia, winner of the Preliminary last year.

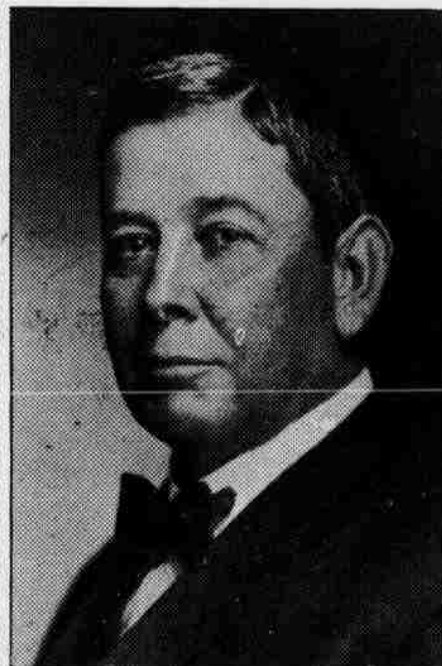

"C. M. Powers of Decatur, Ill., one of the fastest amateurs in the country, will eral interest in the event. Mayor James I. Johnson of Raleigh, will be prominent in the Southern delegation.

"Every prominent professional in the country will be on hand and the fight for the gold medal will be a brisk one, all of the powder and cartridge companies sending their best men, many of them famous in two continents. All in all the week will be one which will give golf a hard run for popularity here, and as for entertainment the gallery will find plenty."

PROMINENT PROFESSIONALS.

In this connection short sketches concerning the prominent "pros" who will take part is of interest and these with photographs of the Winchester representatives, Mr. J. A. R. Elliot, Mr. John R. Taylor and Mr. Harold Money, are attached. Similar sketches concerning other representatives will be used in coming issues.

be a man to put in your list of possibilities and Fred Hodgman of the New York Athletic Club, will also be worth watching, winner of the high average in his club's championship event last year.

"William Ford of Wilmington, will again be in line, shooting stronger than ever, and George Painter of Pittsburg, who won the Wesley Hogan trophy at Atlantic City, will nail his share of the moneys. Frank Hall, an Athletic Club man, who was high up here last year, will also be on hand with a number of clubmates, including Dr. Gleason, O'Donohue, Pelham, a ninety per cent man, Lenane and others.

"Lockwood, Leahy, Hendrickson and Stephenson will head a delegation from the Crescent Athletic Club, and Remsen a Cartarett squad. Dr. Gleason will come with a crowd of Boston Athletic Club men, and Dr. Culver of Brooklyn, is one of the fast ones, the presence of Bandmaster John Philip Sousa will add gen-

MR. J. A. R. ELLIOTT.
Although J. A. R. Elliot has been prominent in the trap-shooting world for nearly twenty years, his skill and personal popularity are still undimmed. In August, 1890, Elliott jumped into the first rank of trap shots by winning the Championship of America at Live Birds, and from that day until this time he has been a dangerous factor in all competitions in which he has taken part. Although live bird shooting is more of a specialty of his than inanimate targets, he has made many remarkable scores at the latter. He is the only shooter who ever held at one time every world's championship trophy for both live bird and target shooting, and all of these were won with Winchester Factory Loaded Shells and a Winchester Repeating Shotgun, which he uses to the exclusion of all other makes of guns and shells. Knowing shooters have often been heard to remark "Beware of 'Jim Elliott' if he
