

hit of the evening, a clever deception worked out by aid of the curtain, permitting antics which would have been impossible had the young women been called upon to use their "feet" instead of their arms which were cleverly made up for the occasion; the gowns worn of crepe tissue.

Prof. Plain (Dr. C. Kingsley Field) gave an exhibition of cleverly performed card tricks and sleight of hand proving himself sufficiently expert to warrant his being regarded with suspicion should he start out as a "promoter."

Mademoiselle Blondine (Miss Bessie Abbe) set all hearts aflutter in her wonderful tight rope act, and had she fallen it would have been necessary to ring for the patrol to keep back the swarm of heroes which would have rushed to her rescue. Gowned in blue appropriate to the occasion, she tripped across the rope as gaily as if it were the board walk at Atlantic City, sat down unmindful of the great distance below her, folded and unfolded her parasol and threw kisses to the men while the crowd held its breath, apparently oblivious to the fact that the rope rested on the floor.

It is not our purpose to enter into editorial comment in connection with news stories, but, to be concise, we don't mind saying for the benefit of Prof. Wellwell (Mr. R. F. Willis) that "we can see his finish," because Pinehurst brooks no competition in the line of Youth restoration. When a man deliberately brings into town and sets up at a hotel an infernal machine in which those in the twilight of life are dropped in at the top and brought out at the bottom buds of sixteen, the welfare of the community is assailed and it is time to call out the Whitecaps. The process, however, was interesting and a large number availed themselves of the opportunity to procure what mankind has been searching for, the "Fountain of Youth." Miss Mary Litchfield was the first to respond, the crank was turned and Miss Marie Hastings came forth. Mrs. Babcock came next and Miss Mollie Abbe appeared. Mrs. Herring was transformed into Miss Bessie Abbe, Miss Dyer into Miss Herring, and Miss Adams into Miss Hastings. Prof. Wellwell (Mr. Willis) was assisted by Mr. Wurdeman.

Then the Band played "Good-night Sweetheart," and "Annie Laurie" while the audience wept in silent sorrow, reviving as the last strains died away to besiege the committee of arrangements with enthusiastic congratulations and thanks.
