Sidetracked.

Joe Struthers kep' inquirin' 'bout the wherefore an' the why.
Whenever anybody said a word o' Joe would try to discombobberate him an' to show beyond a doubt
He didn't come near knowin' what he was a-talkin' 'bout.
He had a way o' lookin' sort o' solemn like an wise
That we got a half-way notion he was Solomon in disguise.
He'd listen to you patient. He would wait till you got through.
Then he'd ask a lot of questions that there ain't no answers to.
He would take you unexpected, an' he managed it so well
That the only things worth knowin' seemed the things you couldn't tell.
It didn't seem worth while to keep on raisin' fruit and feed
Because we couldn't tell how plants developed from the seed.
The poultry business threatened to be left with out a leg
Cause no one knew which happened first, the chicken or the egg.
An' the whole town got discouraged. Every one was feelin' blue
Cause Joe kept askin' questions that there ain't no answers to.
At last we got a phonograph an' hitched it to the mill,
An' loaded it with talk, with intervals of keepin' still.
An' then we set it goin' near Joe's corner in the store
An' all went home resolvin' not to loaf there any more.
An' now we're feelin' better, workin' on in calm content,
An' Joe is happy in his favorite line of argument.
He thinks he's got ol' Huxley beat an' Herbert Spencer, too,
A sittin' askin' questions that there ain't no answers to.

The Open Fire.

An open fire gives keen delight
To those who watch the joyous blaze.
It brightens up the winter night,
And cheers the dark and gloomy days.
We sit beside the pleasant hearth,
And watch the bright flames leap on high,
And see new pictures in the grate,
Until the glowing embers die.
But, like all other things on earth,
The open fire has two sides.
The one is clear in brilliant light,
The other in the shadow hides.
We seldom think of it ourselves,
The fire's brightness seems so good,
But, all the same, the fact remains,
That some one has to saw the wood!

FOX HUNTERS BANNER WEEK

James T. Twitty of Buffalo, Here for Hunting With Fast Pack.

The coming week will be a banner one for fox hunters owing to the arrival of Mr. James T. Twitty of Buffalo, who comes with his fast pack of hounds and a party of friends, to devote the coming week to the chase.

The pack is the one which the Buffalo hunt has used for several years past and which has been brought South for the winter at Mr. Twitty's stock farm at Warrentown, N. C. His dogs, combined with those of the Pinehurst hunt, will make a pack of nearly forty dogs which will provide music good to hear.

Mr. Twitty has generously made the invitation to participate in the hunts general, and in the large number who will follow the chase will be many women.

AN AFTERNOON OF SPORTS.

Carolina Bellmen are Arranging Interesting Program.

The Carolina bellmen are planning an afternoon of sports later in the season for which they are working out with preliminary practise.

In the way of preparation have been a couple hundred yard dashes, in one of which Norris, Austin, Warren and Courtney participated, the former winning in eleven seconds.

In another event between De Roen and Gilman, the former won in 12 seconds.

The idea for the program planned is to have a full afternoon of events, varied in their character, prizes to be provided through a fund raised for the purpose.
