DAN CUPID'S AIM IS TRUE

Archery Contest is Hit of Evening at Carolina Cotillion.

Merrymaking Runs Riot in "Days of Youth", "My Busy Day" and Other Figures.

ELABORATELY carried out in every detail, replete with attractive favors and novel figures, Friday evening's cotillion at The Carolina, proved not only one of the most brilliant of the season's more formal affairs, but one of the merriest as well, the occasion enjoyed by the entire colony. Details of arrangement were in the hands of an active committee and to which great credit is due, including Mrs. C. T. Parks and Mrs. M. D. Paterson of New York, Mrs. Alexander McGregor of Boston, Miss Brooks of Manchester, N. H., Miss Thayer of Milwaukee, Miss Brown of Boston, Miss Horton of Williamsport, Mr. William T. West, Jr., of Camden and Mr. Converse Wurdeman of Milwaukee; Mrs. J. R. Mix and the Misses Presbrey of New York, Mrs. A. M. Banker of Gloversville, and Miss Lucy Priest of Newcastle, N. H., at the favor tables.

The opening march led by Mr. Wurdeman and Miss Brooks, in which the gaily colored floral garlands carried were used effectively, was a brilliant opening to the evening, the idea further carried out in the march led by Mr. Presbrey and Miss McKinney in which the women carried Japanese parasols and the men, gaily decorated gold headed canes,

The novelties in figures included the "Dan Cupid" in which both men and women shot for partners with bows and arrows bearing bright colored ribbons, the possession of an arrow meaning a dance for an over supply of "targets." The same idea was carried out, in a different way, in the "Days of Youth" number where a potato, a bun, an apple or a pear meant a partner, and the scrambles resulting were most amusing. Another jolly frolic was "My Busy Day" in which men and women were required to race down the hall, stand an empty ginger ale bottle on its "impossible" end and return to the belles and beaux in waiting before they could claim a dance.

The chariot race in which four men and four women were driven abreast, twice around the hall, by both men and women, was thrilling enough to meet the requirements of the most exacting,

"steeds" and "charioteers" dancing together. The familiar curtain figure was introduced in a form appropriate to the occasion (April Fool's Day) partners being selected by cardboard bricks attached to red ribbons, thrown across a curtain. Partners were also assigned through "Blind Man's Buff," "Puss in the Corner" and "Paul Jones" circles.

The braiding of the Maypole was one of the prettiest numbers of the evening and another carrying a fan, a second a cane, and the third a parasol; the attendants being privileged to "butt in" at a signal, and force the more fortunate swain to join the ranks of the "would bes".

The favors included Japanese fans, chrysanthemums, floral bonnets, parasols, animal rattles and silk flags for the women, and decorations (orders), clown caps, floral canes, automobile horns and mask blow-outs for the men.

MR. JAMES D. STANDISH, JR.

The young Detroit Country club golfer who was the winner of the United North and South Amateur Golf championship.

the collection of handkerchiefs from both men and women and their later identification in the selection of partners, was most amusing, particularly in view of the fact that "all handkerchiefs looked alike" to many.

The "Merry Widow" figure and the faithfulness with which the men danced attendance, demonstrated that coquettes are still popular, each girl selecting four partners, with one of whom she danced,

Not the least enjoyable features of the evening were the confetti and serpentine melees which concluded the first and last halves. Dancing began at nine and ceased at twelve-thirty, a collation being served at intermission and The Carolina orchestra furnishing music.

The list of participants included Mr. Converse Wurdeman of Milwaukee and Miss Ethel Brooks of Manchester; Mr.
