Manager Abbe Here.

Manager and Mrs. F. C. Abbe of The Berkshire and Harvard arrived Wednesday and are rapidly preparing the hotels for opening.

The Holiday Week Tourney.

A fine field is thus early assured for the sixth annual holiday week tourney scheduled for December 28, 29 and 30.

Fox Hunting Soon.

Manager Morgan is planning the first of the fox hunts for the immediate future and anticipation is keen.

HANDICRAFT SHOP OPENING.

Many New Features Add to Attractiveness of this Favorite Retreat.

The Handicraft Shop was formally opened Thursday, and few Villagers missed the opportunity to inspect the display, without doubt one of the most interesting and fascinating ever shown, the effect heightened by effective and appropriate decorations.

One of the most tempting and attractive features is the display of homemade candies on the "fresh daily" plan, shown beneath a tiny pergola entwined with bright-berried holly and covered with autumn leaves.

Another new feature is found in the "do-with" toys and the name tells the story—and along the same line for children, are Russian, Japanese, Mexican, native and other similar novelties; not to mention the irrepressible jig-saw puzzles for little ones and grown-ups.

The display of Arts and Crafts rugs is unusually large and fine, almost endless in variety and size, and there are also curtains, bed spreads and table covers of many sorts.

Pottery is shown in many styles—Russian-Mayohka, Japanese and Native—varying in form and color. Russian brass and copper ware and carved Russian boxes, not to mention the Japanese bamboo fern baskets, are all wonderfully decorative.

Very dainty is the miniature antique furniture, perfect to the minutest detail; in striking contrast with native tables, stools, etc., made from birdseye maple and rhododendron woods.

Then there are wonderful feather fans, attractive hangers by "Dixie Leach," leather work, and souvenirs without end—but—this will never do, for the exhibition is like a good book; it cannot be described.

Many Enjoy Driving.

Seldom has driving been more generally enjoyed, for countryside roads, glowing in autumn foliage, are never more fascinating than at this season. Among those who are devoted to the recreation are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McCreery, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Ackerson, Mr. and Mr. H. R. Mallinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ramsen Boerum. Thus is apparent the influence of good roads accomplishment, opening up as it does a wealth of interesting territory hitherto difficult of access.

Mr. and Mrs. Tufts Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ormsbee, Mr. Frederick Bruce and Miss Bruce were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tufts at dinner at the Inn Wednesday.

Tennis Court for Mr. Redfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler L. Redfield are having a tennis court built on the grounds near their villa.

Mr. McGregor Returns.

Mr. W. W. McGregor of Bethlehem, returns for the winter as assistant to Postmaster Barrett.
