FIVE CENTS

H. W. PERRIN THE WINNER

Defeats Both Travis and Fownes in St. Valentine's Golf Tourney.

One Hundred and Sixty-eight Participants Representing Leading Amateurs from All Sections.

WO brilliant rounds concluded the sixth annual St. Valentine's Golf Tournament, Saturday, and one name stands out sharp and clear in local golf annals as the result of them, H. W. Perrin of the Merion Cricket and Golf club of Philadelphia.

In the first round Henry C. Fownes of the Oakmont Golf club was the contestant for honors, the home green deciding it one up in the Merion player's honor, but the match of the week and the sensation of the tournament was Mr. Perrin's defeat of Walter J. Travis, former international and American champion, in the semi-finals, three up and two to play.

Mr. Travis had the best of it at the turn being two up, but the Pennsylvanian rallied coming in, rounding out a par thirty-seven to a bad forty-two for his opponent, and the sixteenth green decided it in his favor. Mr. Travis was in bad form on the tee as is illustrated by the fact that he drove in the pond on the tenth, the bunker on the eleventh, and half topped his twelfth and thirteenth tee shots. The special feature of Mr. Perrin's play was his spectacular approach work and at the critical stage of the game, the twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth holes, he went down in two when lying some distance from the green. Mr. Travis also suffered the loss of no less than two holes by missing short putts; his strongest hold on the game.

THE CARDS:

PERRIN—5 5 5 5 3 6 4 3—41
TRAVIS—5 4 5 5 3 7 3 2—39
PERRIN—4 5 4 4 4 3 5 3 5—37—78
TRAVIS—5 6 5 5 4 4 5 3 5—42—81

The match with Mr. Fownes was equally keen but not quite as fast, the medal play scores thirty-six and eighty-nine. At the turn Mr. Fownes was two up, but Mr. Perrin had evened the score on the twelfth. He halved the thirteenth, won the fourteenth with a long putt, and gained the lead which he maintained, with a halved hole on the fifteenth and sixteenth. Both played badly on the seventeenth, halving in four, with not much better on eighteenth, a halve in seven, giving the match to Mr. Perrin.

THE CARDS:

PERRIN—6 5 5 5 4 4 7 3 4—44
FOWNES—6 3 5 5 8 3 6 5 3—44
PERRIN—5 5 4 4 4 4 5 4 7—42—86
FOWNES—6 5 5 4 5 4 5 4 7—45—89

In the second round Mr. Perrin defeated Theodore Cassabeer of Oakland,

In the semi-final Mr. Fownes and J. D. Foot of Apawamis, fought it out to the home green; the Pittsburger two down at the turn. The tenth was halved, alternating luck awaiting Mr. Fownes on the eleventh, twelfth, thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth; the sixteenth halved and the seventeenth won to tie the score. A bad tee shot lost the eighteenth and the match for Mr. Foot.

In the second round Mr. Fownes met

Winner and Runner-up in Sixth Annual St. Valentine's Golf Tournament.

the score one up in his favor at the turn. At this point Mr. Cassabeer rallied, but a six on the long sixteenth, settled it.

THE CARDS:

MR. PERRIN.

In—4 5 5 5 5 4 5 4 5—42—82

C. L. Becker of Woodland, winning two up and one to play; the score all even at the turn and twelfth. Taking the next three holes Mr. Fownes gained a lead which a win by Mr. Becker on the sixteenth reduced one point; a halved seventeenth the end.

In the first round Paul E. Gardner of Midlothian, was defeated, three up and one to play.

MERRY OLD MAN IN THE MOON

Novel Surprises Entertaining Carolina Cotillion Features.

Cakewalk in Which Three Couples Tie also Makes a Hit and Big Company Enjoys the Fun.

CERTAINLY the merriest of the season's more formal dances was Saturday evening's St. Valentine's Cotillion at The Carolina, replete with novelty, surprise and variety, and followed from the opening march to the closing number with keen interest by a company of onlookers which occupied every available seat in the music hall and blocked the entrance passageway. Delightfully informal, it was, nevertheless, one of the dressiest affairs of the season, many new and strikingly beautiful gowns appearing for the first time.

The hits of the evening were several surprises, among them a "frog who would a wooing go," in which six noisy, hopping young men wearing huge frog's heads, were "fished for" by six young women, and "my sweetheart's the man in the moon" in which young men wearing moons (full and otherwise) were claimed as partners by young women wearing miniature moon rosettes, each bearing a number corresponding with one worn by the man.

The cake walk also won round after round of applause and while the participants were a bit slow in starting, no doubt overcome by the size and beauty (?) of the cake which rested in the center of the hall, once in action they demonstrated very clearly that "cullud people" have nothing to brag about over "white fulks." Selected finally, by the committee of judges (Mesdames J. D. C. Rumsey, John Smithers and Carl Gildersleeve) as being the best Mr. Spencer Waters of New York and Miss Harriet Horton of Williamsport, Mr. E. L. Scofield, Jr., of Stamford and Miss Priscilla Beall of Uniontown, and Mr. Paul Gardner of Chicago and Miss Ruby Sewall of Kansas City, were called out to walk again, the applause of the crowd to decide the final result which was announced as "a tie—the cake to be cut!" This, however, was not an easy task as it proved to be only a tin pan, turned bottom side up and lavishly decorated! The frosting, however, was real and the contestants each carried away souvenirs,
