A Christmas Vampire

A fool there was and he made a gift
(Even as you or I)
He bought it with taste and care and thrift
(For a lady his friends thought rather swift)
And when he gave it, the lady sniffed
(Even as you or I).

O, the judgment and taste and time we waste
On the gifts at Christmastide,
Which we give to the lady who isn't pleased
(And now we know she could never be pleased
And never be satisfied).

A fool there was and he gave his check
(Even as you or I)
For a necklace of pearls without a fleck
(And it didn't the least suit the lady's neck)
And she never thanked him a single speck!
(Even as you or I).

O, the think we lose and the think we lose,
On the things we buy with pride
To give to the lady who never is pleased
(And now we know she can never be pleased
And never be satisfied).

The fool was fleeced to his last red cent
(Even as you or I)
She threw him aside, when his gold was spent
(And nobody cared where the lady went)
And the fool gave way to loud lament
(Even as you or I).

And it wasn't the loss, and it wasn't the dross,
The reason that same fool cried;
It was coming to know that she never was pleased
(Seeing at last she could never be pleased
And never be satisfied).

Old, Yet New!

Same old Christmas!
Same old jokes,
Same old slippers
Same old smoke
Same old swaying
Mistletoe,
Same old kisses—
Same old "O!"

Same old shoppers,
Same old rush,
Same old egg nog,
Same old lusc,
Same old stockings,
Same old tree,
Same old Santa,
Same old glee.

Same old pictures,
Same old verse,
Same old pipe racks—
Only worse!
Same old neckties,
Same old dolls,
Same old candy,
Same old balls.

Same old dinner,
Same old cards,
Same old gifts from
Same old pals—
Merry Christmas!
Glad! Aren't you?
It's the same thing—
Old, yet new!

—Life.
