FIVE CENTS

VICTORY FOR MR. CROCKER

Clean Cut Play Takes President's Trophy in Autumn Golf Tourney

Robert Gould Shaw Makes Fine Win in Second Division—Entrance Breaks All Previous Records

CLEAN CUT, consistent play won the President's trophy for George H. Crocker of the Brookline Country Club in the ninth annual autumn golf tournament, the final round a seven and six victory over J. E. Kellogg of the Alpine Golf brilliant recovery from a topped tee shot by Mr. Foot, but superior tee shots gave the next three holes and the match to Mr. Crocker. The bye holes were halved in threes and fives.

Mr. Crocker's second round was six and five from John R. Goodall of the Bellrieve Country Club, and his first, four and two from W. S. Rathbone of Englewood. Mr. Kellogg won two up in the first round from G. Glenn Worden of the Crescent Athletic Club, by the same score from D. N. Jewett of Aberdeen, N. D., in the second, and three and two from Erman J. Ridgway of Montclair in the semi-final. Mr. Foot's first round win from his son required an extra hole.

Robert Gould Shaw of Brookline made a fine win in the second division; a six of Brookline led with a fast seventy-seven and withdrawing from match play. Mr. Crocker was second in eighty-two and Mr. Foot third in eighty-five. Number one course was played; the entrance of forty-two a record for the tournament. The trophies were most attractive.

SOUTHWARD-HO! BY AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Briggs Make Journey Over Capital Highway Route

Delightful Diversity Makes the Trip One for Which They Prophecy Great Popularity

FIRST TO make the Southward-Ho! journey by automobile over the Capital Highway this season were Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Briggs of East Greenwich, Conn., who spent a week here on their way to Jacksonville. Mr. Briggs reports the Club. The match of the week, however, was Mr. Crocker's defeat of James D. Foot, the Apawamis veteran, by three and two in a match much closer than the score indicates; the cards seventy-nine and eighty-one.

Taking the first three holes in four, four and two, Mr. Crocker gained a lead of three up. The next two holes were halved, Mr. Foot winning the sixth, halving the seventh and eighth, winning the ninth and turning home one down. A 4 won the tenth or pond hole for the Apawamis veteran, squaring the match, and a 3 on the short eleventh gained the lead. A pulled drive and resultant missed second and third shots, cost Mr. Foot the twelfth, 4-5, and without doubt, the crisis of the round. The thirteenth was halved in four by aid of a and five victory over J. D. C. Rumsey of Brooklyn deciding the final. In the semi-final Mr. Shaw defeated Thomas J. Check of New York five and four; in the second C. T. Bloomer of Newark three and two; and in the first C. B. Hudson of New Suffolk. Mr. Rumsey defeated Frank Nay of Chicago, two and one; A. H. Sisson of Chicago, four and three; and F. W. Keller of Lawrenceville, five and four, in the order given. The first division consolation final developed keen play between Arthur H. Shaw of Brookline and W. S. Rathbone of Detroit; the home green deciding it in Mr. Shaw's favor. In the second division John B. Bowen of the Philadelphia Cricket Club scored six to five in his final with C. B. Hudson of New Suffolk.

roads in good condition with indications everywhere of improvement, the journey one of delightful diversity for which he prophesies great popularity. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Briggs made the trip over the National route.

Both are enthusiasts on touring and have covered a wide range of territory, some 15,000 miles in distance during the year drawing to a close. "Winter touring is bound to come just as winter golf has come," declares Mr. Briggs, "and the popular route is sure to be the route which appeals to the tourist; or briefly, the Capital. It's the incident of the tour which appeals. We want to linger as fancy dictates, in New York, Washington, Richmond or Raleigh, stopping at Pinehurst for a week's rec-
