

TWO RATTLING FOX HUNTS*Face is Rapid but Sly Reynard Fails to Elude the Pack

Two rattling hunts opened the week for the fox hunters and each with its kill as the climax of a fast race. Joining in the sport was a big field which is looking forward to the coming weeks with enthusiastic anticipation.

For snap and dash Wednesday's chase was easily the leader, for Reynard had worked close to the Town in an inspection of the Poultry Farm, and the hounds found the hot scent not more than one hundred yards from his bed. Twenty seconds later the music opened at concert pitch with never a let up.

Hard pressed the fox was forced to match his best speed against the pack and away he sped over hillside to cover, swinging wide on the return to gain a lead which offered opportunity for the first double. Little time it took the pack to solve this simple problem and once more the welkin rang; its climax a sudden ending when Reynard ran amuck in a woven wire fence.
