THE ARTS & CRAFTS SHOP

A Quaint Corner in This the Unique Village of Many Surprises

IN THIS the Village where with not a thing one really has to do one finds every minute occupied, it is not strange that my visit to the Arts & Crafts Shop was long delayed, but having gone once I shall go again and again to revel in the delights afforded by this quaintest of corners. ¶ Perhaps the most interesting "feature" is the potter, his only implement the primitive wheel which he keeps in motion with his foot, while with deft fingers he molds, shapes and smooths meaningless lumps of clay into beauty of form and articles of utility.

A full-blooded Cherokee Indian basket weaver occupies a retreat hung with forest boughs and tapering grasses, the floor roughly strewn with pine needles singularly suggestive of the home of the Red Man, child of Nature. ¶ Within a miniature log cabin "Mrs. McKenzie" fashions rugs and things on the hand loom of a century ago, and hard by Uncle Joe carves wonderful creations from wood. ¶ Passing on, I continue to pause before products where "art is ever the expression of one's joy in work," conveying its subtle meaning in wide and varied range. ¶ Surely we never quite cease to be children and we are all "collectors." ¶ Yes, I shall go again and again! —R. L. E.

"MRS. MCKENZIE FASHIONS RUGS AND THINGS"

Win Silver Foils Putting

Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse and Miss Jennie Brown were the prize-winners of trophies contributed by Mrs. A. C. Aborn and Mrs. O. C. Hutchinson in a Silver Foils putting competition.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Houston

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hoon of Holyoke, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Houston at the Arbutus cottage.

Farm Lands as Investments

Dr. Walter S. Page, editor of World's Work, has purchased a thousand-acre farm, southwest of The Carolina, upon which he will build a winter home, and from all sections of the country interest in the agricultural possibilities of the immediate section is manifesting itself. ¶ In this connection the story, "Facts About North Carolina," printed upon pages 8 and 9 of last week's OUTLOOK is of exceptional interest, giving as it does facts which have until recently been little known.

A GOLF BALL REVOLUTION

SCOTTY—This is another new Ball that is put out to meet the demand for the small size, depressed marked, weighted center type at a popular price. It sells at $6.00 the dozen. Of the same excellent construction which marks all

Coming Home With A FULL GAME BAG

Proves the Merit of

Sporting Powders

THE success of the hunting trip can be made more certain if the selection of powder loads is considered and decided when preparing for the anticipated excursion

Don't experiment to learn which powder has dependability and puts velocity and penetration back of your shot.

Go to your dealer and buy shot shells containing Dupont or Ballistite loads. Then you have solved the powder question.

Ask for "Dupont" and "Ballistite" Booklets.—proper loads for various games, properties of each brand and useful information for shooters. Address Dept. 297.
